FOREWORD

THIS volume of the Cherry Tree is presented to its many friends with the hope that it shall serve not only as a chronicle of the events and activities of the past school year a review of which in years to come will conjure up pleasant memories to tickle the palate of imagination and refreshen the bonds of many happy schoolday friendships; but also that it shall serve to bind into a closer unity the varied interests of the scattered departments of the University so that it may play its humble part in the building of a greater George Washington.

Respectfully dedicated to
Dr. WILLIAM MILLER COLLIER
President of the University, whose untiring efforts towards a bigger and better George Washington have won for him the good will and respect of the entire student body.

WILLIAM MILLER COLLIER, A. M., LL. D.
President of the University

ADMINISTRATION

A PRAYER
BY
GEORGE WASHINGTON

ALMIGHTY God: We make our earnest prayer that Thou wilt keep the United States in Thy holy protection, that Thou wilt incline the hearts of the citizens to cultivate a spirit of subordination and obedience to government; and entertain a brotherly affection and love for one another and for their fellow-citizens of the United States at large. And finally that Thou wilt most graciously be pleased to dispose us all to do justice, to love mercy and to demean ourselves with that charity, humility and pacific temper of mind which were the characteristics of the Divine Author of our blessed religion and without a humble imitation of whose example in these things we can never hope to be a happy nation. Grant our supplication, we beseech Thee, through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

William Miller Collier, A.M., LL.D.

President of the University

PRESIDENT Collier is a native of New York State and received his bachelor's and master's degrees at Hamilton College and has the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from the same as well as from The George Washington University. He studied law for a brief period at Columbia University, New York City, and after some practical experience in law offices was admitted to the bar and settled in Auburn, N. Y. He has been active in the civic life of that place and is connected with numerous charitable and philanthropic organizations and is a member of the Episcopal church.

He has held highly important and responsible government positions and has become well-known for his numerous writings on Civil Service law, bankruptcy, diplomacy, and economic questions. Among these have been: "Collier on Bankruptcy"; "Collier on Civil Service Law"; "The Trusts: What Can We Do With Them? What Can They Do For Us?"; and a volume of diplomatic memoirs entitled, "At the Court of His Catholic Majesty".

He was first a Referee in Bankruptcy and then a member of the New York State Civil Service Commission under Theodore Roosevelt when Governor, and president of the same under Governor Odell. In 1903 he was made Special Assistant Attorney General of the United States by President Roosevelt and afterwards Solicitor of the Department of Commerce and Labor. He then served for over four years as American Minister Plenipotentiary to Spain. Since that time he has given special courses of lectures upon international law and diplomacy at several universities and colleges and has been engaged in the practice of international law.

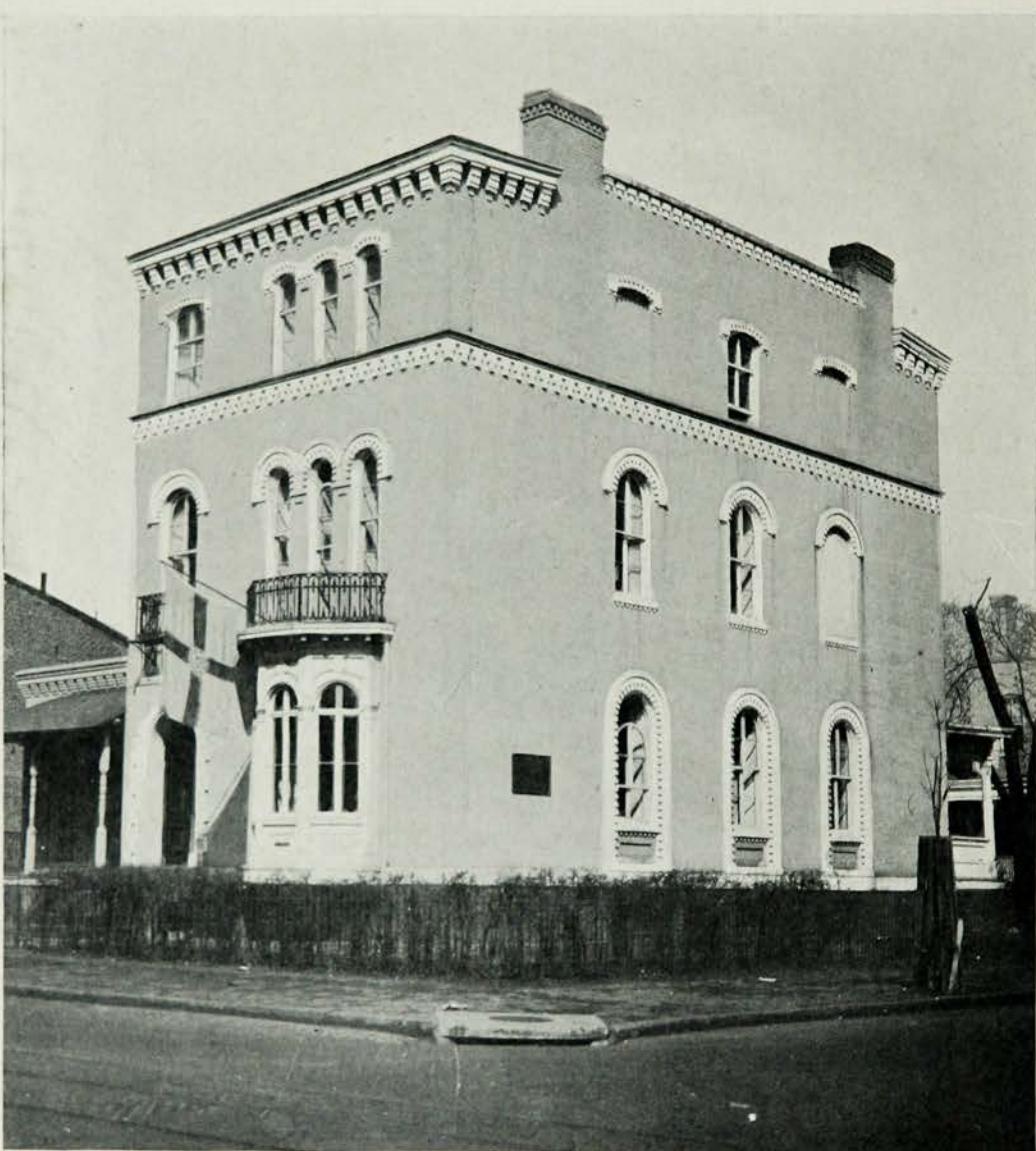

In 1914, he was appointed by President Wilson as Plenipotentiary and head of the American delegation to the International Conference held at Christiania, Norway, to frame a government for the Islands of Spitzbergen.

In recognition of his writings upon Spain and his successful efforts in promoting cordial relations between the United States and that country, the King of Spain in 1916, several years after President Collier had ceased to be Minister there, conferred upon him the Grand Cross of Isabella the Catholic, one of the highest Spanish orders.

President Collier has travelled very much, having made nearly twenty trips to Europe, as well as an extended tour through nearly all the South American countries and a journey to Northern Africa.

President Collier became the head of George Washington University on September 1, 1918, and since that time, under his efficient administration, the University has made—and continues to make—remarkable strides in growth and prosperity.

Columbian College

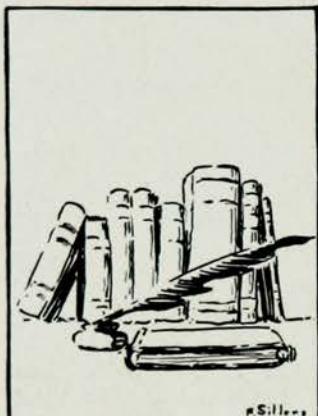

DEAN WILBUR

bian College is vital and distinctive. Columbian College does its work in an atmosphere most distinctly American. It is our heritage and it is also our opportunity and our mission. The American scholar interpreted by Emerson, not as a thinking machine, but as a man thinking, is still the ideal of Columbian College in the American Capital.

Columbian College, the second Baptist college in America, was founded by Luther Rice in 1821, for "the sole and exclusive purpose of educating youth in the English learned and foreign languages, the liberal arts, sciences and literatures". The freedom of the old charter has been perpetuated that "persons of every religious denomination shall be capable of being elected trustees, nor shall any person either as President, tutor or pupil be refused admittance into said college or denied any of the privileges, immunities, or advantages thereof for or on account of his sentiments in matters of religion". The College became non-denominational in 1904.

Washington itself is the key to Columbian College. Its work is done in the American atmosphere of the National Capital. George Washington's ideal of an institution that should standardize the thinking of America was not to be realized, but the effect of American atmosphere on Colum-

Class History

HT is hard to believe that we, the class of 1920, have wandered or rushed, as the case may be, through the halls of Columbian College for four, full, yes brim-full years, but such is surely the case. Figures never lie, so it is said, and facts as well as figures prove that it has been four years; and on stopping to think back over the many things that have come to pass in that time we cannot but wonder what the next four will bring forth.

Not that we have any doubts as to the success and ultimate triumph of each and every one of the class of '20, for it would be impossible to build a false or unsubstantial superstructure on the true and sound foundation that has been given us by our alma mater, but only because it is human to try to tunnel into the hidden stores of the future, and in our case we cannot see anything but glorious treasures at the end of our way.

But, enough of this dreamy soliloquy! This is a history, not a prophecy. Our class came into being in the middle of the world's greatest war and in the next year that same war took many of our company away, but with the triumphant closing of the struggle not a few of these returned to finish their courses and get their sheepskins, so in more ways than one we are a class of veterans.

This last year has been one of great happenings for old G. W. and '20 has never been far in the rear in any of the processions. We have had the best of class officers and under their able guidance have had many enjoyable and successful hand-outs, parties, hops, etc., which have done much to bind us into a closer and more comrade-like class.

We cannot say good-bye to our own G. W. U., but instead, we'll each just whisper a confident MIZPAH.

LESLIE H. ADAMS

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

S A E

Cherry Tree Staff, 1918-'20.

Leslie is one of the people going to two schools at the same time. Graduating from Columbian College and taking up law at the Law School has made this his busy year, but he seems to stand the "gaff" O. K. Leslie is proclaimed by all who know him as a genuine all round fellow. His only failing seems to be his addiction to shell-rim goggles.

RUTH FRANCES ALLEN

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

Assistant Librarian, 1917-'20; Librarian, Summer School, 1919; Student Assistant in English, 1919-'20; Women's University Club, Housekeeper, 1918-'19; Secretary, 1919-'20.

Though Frances has been with us but three years, she surely has kept us on the jump. When we elected her secretary of W. U. C. last June, we thought we had succeeded in placing her in the right category. But now Frances flashes her left hand, and says that it is the office of housekeeper to which she is wedded.

JOHN ANDREW AMAN

MARYLAND

Student Assistant in English

To John we must say good-bye. However, we will miss him, for he is a valuable assistant in English and an able leader in Chapel. In languages he doth shine, especially as tutor in Greek; but in "Sokeyology" he fain would differ with the prof. In closing we all wish this kind and willing fellow the greatest possible success.

JOHN L. BAER

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

We hardly know whether he is specializing in Philosophy or Economics, but at any rate G. W. is mighty glad to have had him and when he is gone there will be one bright and shining star missing in more than one class. John's jovial face is easily spotted and once seen seldom forgotten.

CHARLES OLIN BALL

Kansas State Agricultural School, 1912; Washburn College, 1914-'17; Cambridge University, England, 1919; George Washington University, 1919-'20; G. W. U. Alchemists.

Olin had taken almost enough work at the Kansas State Agricultural College and Washburn College to get a degree when he allowed his patriotism to get the best of him. Now after nearly three years service both at home and abroad he has come to G. W. to take his degree. His two main interests this winter have been chemistry and matrimony.

For he has departed these ways so gay
Just like the wonderful one-horse shay.

Strange as it may seem, international law is the hobby of this Southerner. He and Dr. Hill argue, discuss and disagree upon many subjects of international concern. Since Cabler forms his own opinions, their discussions usually come to a peaceful conclusion by their agreeing to disagree.

DORIS MABLE COCHRAN

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

Doris came to Washington at the tender age of about eleven months and immediately liked the place so well that she has remained here ever since. She is a graduate of Central High School and has been at G. W. U. since September, 1916. She has made many friends here in her stay of four years and will be missed mightily by those she leaves behind.

His motto is "Dance until 1 A. M., then study until 6 A. M., and always pass exams." "Cotty" is a student of the first magnitude, his long suite being radio. His favorite sport is "Taking the Ladies Home in Taxies". We might also add that he enjoys a canoe trip every now and then and, quite confidentially, he is seldom seen paddling alone.

Sara is a dyed in the wool Southerner, having been born and raised in dear old Geo'gia, where we are told everything is peaches, nuff sade! She is majoring—and minoring—in economics and sociology and now that she has learned all that G. W. U. can teach her she expects to go out and learn from the best instructor of all, experience. The Department of Arts and Sciences is directly the development of the old Columbian College which was organized in 1821. Its administration is divided into four schools, the School of Graduate Studies, the Columbian College, the College of Engineering, and the Teachers' College.

The School of Graduate Studies has supervision of courses in the University leading to the higher degrees.

The Columbian College is the academic school and is the representative of the old Columbian College. In 1903 its name was changed to the College of Arts and Sciences, but later it was again given the name of Columbian College.

In 1884 there was established in the college a school known as the Corcoran Scientific, which in 1904 became the present College of Engineering.

The Teachers' College was an outgrowth of a successful experi-

ENGINEERING

C. McMANAMY

Class History

OUR short years ago a crowd of rollicking, senseless boys and girls entered the doors of G. W. to give it the once over and to take up courses in Engineering: civil, electrical, mechanical or chemical as the case might be. Now this class is reduced to nine and it is purely and completely a stag party. We needs must repeat that we believe in quality and not quantity.

About the second year it began to be realized that there was more to college than teas, fraternities, hops, and social parties and at once several of our members dropped; but those that stuck it out found that one can really study and be interested in one and the same thing at the same time.

This was quite a revelation and added much spirit and zest to the work. Of course some could not get this view until their third year; some not until their fourth; and even, now softly, some never at all. Those that couldn't see it that way had rather rough riding for a while; but then experience is a severe instructor.

This last year our ship of state, guided by that old and trustworthy mariner R. B. H. with F. V. W. and B. C. C. as first and second mates respectively, and with F. W. M. and C. F. B. on the look-out for torpedoes, has sailed the rocking seas with the best of luck and good comradeship; and we all are confident that in the great voyage to come each member will be fitted to do his bit to make conditions better around about him and thus help to smooth out some of the biggest rollers in the way.

taken their baccalaureate degree enter government work in Washington partly because of the great educational advantages of the capital. In doing graduate work in our university, they frequently have the privilege of working side by side with their instructors in the great government offices, libraries and laboratories. In these and other ways we feel that the Graduate School of George Washington University offers peculiarly valuable advantages to students from all parts of the country.

The School of Graduate Studies was founded in 1893, with Dr. Chas. E. Munroe as Dean. Dr. Munroe served in this capacity until the fall of 1918, when he was granted a year's leave of absence; in 1919 he became Dean Emeritus. Under his guidance the registration reached a maximum of 145. Sharing the general growth of the University, the Graduate School this year has a registration of 205, far ahead of any previous record.

The most distinctive mark of George Washington University is that on the one hand, while offering instruction in the morning to young men and women who can devote the whole day to their studies, in the late afternoon it provides for those who are earning their livelihood; on the other hand, it has on its faculties both men who devote their entire time to teaching and specialists from the various branches of the government who teach after office-hours. This is noticeably true of the Graduate School. Many young men and women who have degree. This degree is the standard symbol of liberal culture and so is most appropriate for the college-trained teacher. The pedagogical training is recognized by means of a Bachelor Diploma in Education.

Teachers' College is one of the younger children in the family of Colleges of George Washington University. It was organized as a Division of Education in 1907, and so has only just entered upon its second decade of service. As Teachers College it has been serving only since 1909.

That Teachers College lays stress upon a rounded group of courses in educational theory and practice may be taken for granted. These courses are now very generally accepted as essential for enlightened and effective instruction and few desirable positions are open to those who have not pursued them. While this is as it should be, sight should not be lost of the fact that the heart of the teacher's preparations is found, not in pedagogical theory, but in a thoroughgoing knowledge of subject-matter. It is this, and not the former, that confers upon the teacher the voice of authority. In harmony with this fact, Teachers College prescribes academic specialization and adheres to the A. B.

LTHOUGH Teachers' College classes do not organize until their Senior year, we have made the best of our organization since it was perfected. Ours is an Adamless Eden, but it makes no difference to us, as we have Law and Engineering on which to fall back.

The war, wh ch raised havoc with other classes, did not affect us to any great extent. Many of us took up war work for a time (some even enlisted) but the majority have returned again to their teaching.

Our several class meetings have been preceded by delightful suppers—which, if there had been any of the male element present, might have proved an excellent recommendation for the cooks.

Through our instrumentality the Senior classes are all to meet and become acquainted. We are also pledged to help the Building and Endowment Funds and to support the revival of football.

Under the able leadership of M. Elizabeth Humphrey as President, Gertrude Walter as Vice-President, Arline Dufour as Secretary, and Lelia Hardell as Treasurer, we feel that we have not only enjoyed our last year at school, but that we have been a real aid to our Alma Mater.

Law School

is not this large attendance as an end in itself, but is in what that attendance signifies. It signifies the triumph of a sound and honest educational policy. It shows an appreciation by students of high standards honestly enforced, thorough instruction and a jealous guarding of degrees. It is an encouraging sign to the legal profession when young men entering the study of law voluntarily choose a school which holds them up to a hard and careful preparation for the bar. It thus appears that expediency as well as our duty to the public and to our students requires strict adherence in the future to these same high standards which our Trustees and Faculty have so harmoniously agreed upon in the past.

This Law School, the oldest in the District of Columbia, was established in 1865, and in the course of its existence has done much for the advancement of legal education. It has been our endeavor to furnish careful instruction to students who are prepared to receive it, and to advance students no more rapidly than is compatible with thoroughness. The Law School is a charter member of the Association of American Law Schools, and has always stood for the highest and most progressive standards in legal education.

The Law School this year has had the largest enrollment in its history, the actual net enrollment on February 16th being 660. There were 374 students in the first year class and the quarters of the School being inadequate to house this number, the overflow went over to the Medical building for their classes; but now property has been obtained at 1435 K Street, where the whole Law School expects to be located next year.

The main cause for satisfaction

Class History

S has been the case with many classes entering the Law School, the Class of 1920 started with a large enrollment. The way has been hard, the road has been long, the task has been difficult, and our membership has been greatly depleted, but those of us who have reached the goal may look back with some feeling of pride upon this achievement. The class has not only lost from its membership the usual quota who fall by the wayside during the three long years of study, but also those who heeded their country's call and went forth to help make the world safe for democracy.

But those of us who have remained behind and whom fortune has permitted to complete our legal studies have a stupendous task before us. The great social and economic upheaval which is now in progress and which will probably increase in magnitude, presents a problem which taxes to the utmost the abilities of the present generation. As it has been in the past, so will it be in the future, the legal profession must form the vanguard of society in building on the ashes of the past a new civilization. Now that peace once more reigns and the vast armies are disbanded and have returned to their abodes, need is felt as never before for men learned in the law to assist mankind in adjusting itself to the new order of things.

We of the Class of 1920 are entering upon our career at a time which presents such opportunities to serve our country and fellowmen. Justice will be the power which will reign supreme throughout the world, and it is upon us as members of the legal profession that the burden of administering justice must fall. It is for us who go forth from this school to uphold the best traditions of the legal profession and this University. It is a task worthy of any man. May we so meet it as to reflect honor upon ourselves, our school, and our profession.

States Army, which is the most complete medical library in the world; the Library of Congress, the Army Medical Museum, the Naval Museum of Hygiene, and the National Museum, three of the best medical museums known.

The high standard of the school is evidenced by the position of the graduates and the confidence placed in the school by the medical profession. Before the war ten per cent of the total number of the regular Medical Corps of the United States Army were graduates of this school. Now many more, both graduates and undergraduates, have gone into the service. A large number of the undergraduates have enlisted in the Medical Reserve Corps of the Army and have been granted leave to continue their studies here.

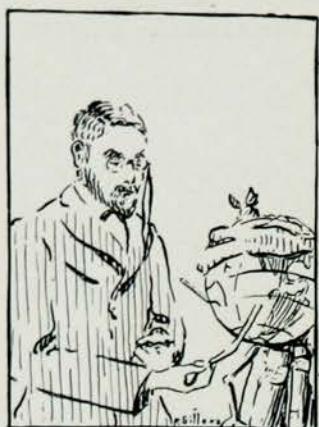

The Medical School of George Washington University is one of the oldest in the United States, it being the seventeenth in the order of establishment. By maintaining high standards during its many years of existence, the school has attained a position of which George Washington can well be proud.

It is designated as a "Class A" institution by the Association of American Medical Colleges, of which it is a member, and it is accredited for all its work by the Combined (Royal) Medical Examining Boards of England. The degree of M. D. given admits the holder to all government examinations, including those for the Medical Corps of the Army and Navy and the Public Health Service.

The school is most favorably located for the study of medicine. The students have access to all the wonderful libraries and museums in Washington, including the library of the office of the Surgeon General of the United States Army, which is the most complete medical library in the world; the Library of Congress, the Army Medical Museum, the Naval Museum of Hygiene, and the National Museum, three of the best medical museums known.

MEDICAL

C. McManamy

Class History

EOUR short years ago (it seems but yesterday) an ambitious crew about forty strong stepped boldly off on the trail to an M. D. They were a varied lot—big ones and little ones. The far East and the near West, North and South all lent sons to this undertaking. They were forewarned, and from the first tap of the bell their hats were off, their sleeves rolled up and the fight was on.

The erosion of a year wrought many changes, and the opening of the second lap to our objective found gaps that told the old, old story of the "also rans". But additions came to us in Bland, Peterson, Pitt, Klemme and Mackenzie, and later Vestal rejoined us on returning from Border Service in Mexico. But the year was not over and ere it waned our one fair feminine member left us, little Miss Ketcham, whose loyalty to her Thomas Cat would never permit her to complete the cruel course of Physiology and its accompanying Canine Experimentation.

This year saw the class giving to our Alma Mater two good Football men, Hollingsworth and King, and they did their part well.

The third term of our scholastic career dawned upon us under the heavy clouds of the Great World War. Our ranks, already thinned by the natural course of events, felt the added loss of our fellows called to the colors. Vestal, our veteran, was the first to leave us and was among the first of our hospital shipments to land on foreign soil. The year was spent under the abnormal conditions that marked the introduction of military training in our American Universities, and the great epidemic of influenza that took from us our beloved classmate Vail M. Minnick, of Pennsylvania. Minnick served as our class president for two successive years and his death came as a terrible blow to us who knew him and loved him.

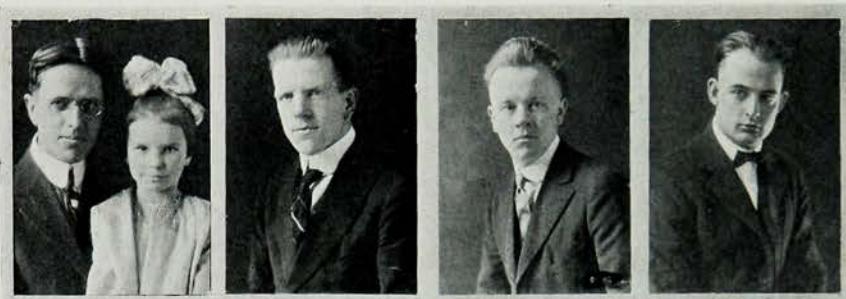

This memorable period in our onward struggle was again to be marred by the death of our classmate Ralph E. A. Peterson while on foreign soil, and a gold star in our service flag will ever keep alive the memory of the spirit in which he so honorably gave his life.

We hopped off on our last round of the big fight with a determination grimmer than ever. The goal was in sight and behind us lay the rocky road over which we had traversed. There was no turning back. There was but to burn the bridges after us and dig in like Hell to a victorious finish. We have been fortunate in our final year to receive great benefit from the facts learned resulting from the research and study in our line of work done during the war, and we have been more than blessed by having men on our faculty who have been prominent in such work.

I pause before attempting a conclusion. "Few shall part where many meet" runs through my mind, or should it be the oft repeated and time proven Darwinian rule, "The Survival of the Fittest". Be that as it may, we stand upon the threshold of the realization of our ambitions, a victorious Medical Class '20.

ALABAMA

Kappa Alpha (Gen'l.); Phi Chi (Med.); Varsity Football, '16; Vice-President, Senior Class.

"Pinkie" is one of the old boys, and hails from "Alabama", which doubtless accounts for his extreme fondness for the descendants of Ham. Energetic and full of pep, his temper prevents his getting back his breakage fee each year. But for all that, he is one of our most popular Seniors. We admire his intellect, and are confident of his success.

Sigma Nu (Gen'l.); Phi Rho Sigma (Med.).

Generally seen handing in a completed exam about twenty minutes from the start. (How he gets that way nobody knows, but it is the consensus of opinion that he knows his stuff, which no doubt accounts for it.) Loves rainy days and weather too hot or too cold for everybody else. (Like a genius.) But we who know him, know a pal to be appreciated and in his profession a man to be honored and respected by us all.

KANG LI

F. F. F.

A real aristocrat, we take off our hats to Li. We respect him for his generalized knowledge, admire him for his unassuming manner, and love him because through and through he is a man. His success is assured if he continues to be the Kang Li as we know him.

JOHN EARNEST MCKENZIE, A. B.

NORTH CAROLINA

Mac hails from the South and evidences in his daily life many of the characteristics of those parts. He has all the faculties of a practitioner, common sense, splendid disposition and shrewdness in diagnosis. From his record at W. A. we can prognosticate him a successful internist and diagnostician.

ROQUE NARCISSUS ALFONSO MUÑOZ

HONDURAS

Another son of the glorious tropics, fresh from the hot-beds of a couple of revolutions, but four years of medicine has turned Roque's mind into channels other than political, and he goes back to engage in the gentle art of healing. We wish him well.

EMMET EMERSON NEWCOMER

PENNSYLVANIA

Garfield Hospital; Phi Chi (Med.).

Better known as "Newky", Emmet is ever possessed with the unique ability to adapt himself to professional environment as well as to unrestricted gamboiling over the campus (?) green. A good sport and a dependable intern, Newcomer bids fair to hit the high spots to a successful and lucrative practice. Hats off to Newky.

JOHN WILLIAM PHILLIPS

NORTH CAROLINA

Phil hails from the land of picaninnies and cotton, a typical "Tar-Heel", and true to the type. Not only is he a hard worker, but ambitious as well. He has very definite visions of future matrimonial bliss. We see him years hence, jollying his patients back to health, surrounded by countless children, and withal thoroughly happy. Pax vobiscum.

HERBERT P. RAMSEY, A. B.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

*Pyramid Honor Society; Class Vice-President, 1916-'17

A near-member of the faculty, Herbert's ambition is to become a musician as well as a professional man. Wooing with a eukelele is by far no lost art in the District. However, this versatile mind well deserves a place among us. His knowledge and ability in this chosen profession cannot be questioned and we are sure Herbert will uphold the standard of our Alma Mater in whatever locality that he may be destined to hang out his shingle.

NORMAN P. SCALA

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

Our widely known musician who, no doubt, can tell the pitch of sundry medical thumps and their significance as well. The extent of his practice will always be known by watching the maneuvers of a characteristic Buick. Matrimonial instinct runs high in this man. We wish him well.

H. WESTON B. STIBBS

NEW YORK

Alpha Kappa Kappa (Med.); University Masonic Club.

Here seen for the first time minus a cigar. Jovial and big-hearted, loyal promoter of toothache parties, Weston has worked among us spreading his contagious grin where most needed and beneath his mirth we all know he carries a big wad of the real facts of medicine. A successful future awaits him.

ALVIN D. STULTZ, A. B.

NEW JERSEY

Phi Rho Sigma (Med.); Hospital Sgt. U. S. A. Med. Corps.

Al has made a record while in the ranks of the American Army by his untiring and diligent work. Joining us this year, our esteemed classmate is sure to make his mark in the ranks of the foremost men of this profession. Wherever A. D. goes, his work will be quietly and thoroughly done and the community that harbors him will surely honor him.

THOMAS CARLTON THOMPSON

PENNSYLVANIA

Emergency Hospital; Kappa Psi (Med.); Secretary and Treasurer, Senior Class.

Tommy is actual proof of that old maxim "Still water runs deep". Quietly he has pursued his way thru the course, faithfully and steadily, and the folks back home might well be proud of his accomplishments. He is practical and conscientious, two faculties which spell for him success and a place of highest esteem in his profession.

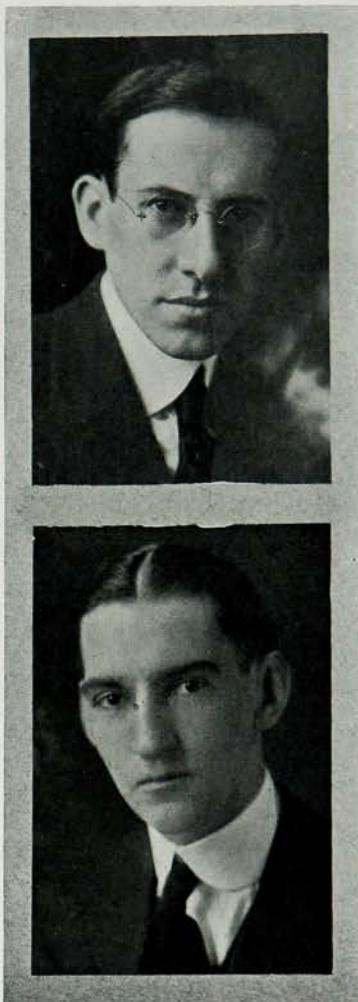

Medical Seniors

FRANK LOUIS WILLIMAN

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

Both Frank and his wife were trained hydrotherapy nurses before starting medicine, and are conducting popular treatment rooms at the Burlington as they go along. He is supremely practical in the application of his knowledge, and will be an able, conscientious doctor.

JACK BEROLETTE ZERBE

VIRGINIA

Garfield Hospital; Kappa Psi (Med.); Medical Editor of Hatchet, 1916-'17; Medical Editor of Cherry Tree, 1916-'18-'20.

Though last in the list, but deserving of more prominence, Jack has always allowed his classmates to go before him (alphabetically). Virginia countrysides, hospitals and lecture halls all show marks of Zerbe's invasion. His greatest achievement in the struggle for an M. D. was the true diagnosis of his own heart condition, and the proper treatment thereof. We all see the earmarks of a real practitioner in Jack and wish him well.

NICHOLAS MANDELOS

GREECE

Hailing from Helos, Nick has braved four years of strenuousness, permitting him to return to his native land with his shield, rather than upon it. Untiring in explaining everything there is in medicine and a firm believer in his own biogenic theory of life, Nick goes forth confident that he can arise to any occasion that may present itself. Go to it, Nick, we're backing you.

Class History

A tribute to the great people from whom the Senior Class' brains are composed:

Here's to Miss Glasscock who started us straight
 'Till death came and ended her fate.
 Next came Miss Johnson who led us a life,
 But we couldn't stand it and went on a strike.
 Along came Coine, all shiny and new
 Illness, operation, and she went too.
 Next came Miss Mebane who burned our trail
 Look at the Seniors, you notice they're frail!
 Blackwell came, ah, then,
 Married soon, went out again.
 Lillian McKnight then came to reign
 Ye gods, girls, do you wonder we are sane?
 Since then we have had calm and peace
 Under the superintendency of Miss Olive B. Sweet.

We started many and with good intentions
 But these are the things we hate to mention.
 Everyone knows we started with plenty
 But this is all there is of 1920.

are successful and stand for worthwhile movements in their communities.

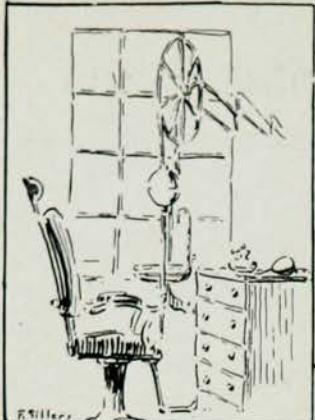

The Dental School was founded in 1887 in connection with the Medical School and was housed in the same building. The two schools are still together in the building at 1335 H Street which was obtained in 1902.

The school has an excellent clinic with thirty-four chairs where work is carried on by the Seniors. It has always ranked high among Dental Schools and its graduates are located everywhere and in all branches of the service.

The school has kept well abreast of the times and its enrollment is larger each succeeding year. Its students are all hard working, conscientious and capable and are there for business only. That is one of the reasons for the high standing of the school.

Situated as it is in the heart of the Capital of the Nation, it has facilities that can be approached by no other school outside the city in the way of library and research material. The highest praise that can be said of the school is that its graduates invariably

OF the few Senior Dental Graduating Classes this year in any school in the country, the 1920 Dents at G. W. U. have left a trail behind them blazing with glory and accomplishments—one to which future classes will look with envy and respect; and from which the Juniors, Sophomores and Freshmen have gained inspiration.

The Class of 1920 did not assemble "one beautiful September morn four years ago" as a bunch of little Freshies, but came down "in toto", on a cold, snowy December day to fill the one greatest want in the Dental School—to become the best class in the school. And that reputation it has always upheld. Very early in its career was the class called upon to demonstrate the administration of Nitrous Oxide to the whole undergraduate body and some men of the Faculty; and so perfect was this demonstration that the manufacturers offered a traveling scholarship to several members of the class just to demonstrate the machine. This offer, of course, had to be turned down. Later, for the 1919 winning Dental Baseball Team, the Class of 1920 supplied no less than seven of the whole team, and the other two men were merely "subs", the regulars really belonging to the class.

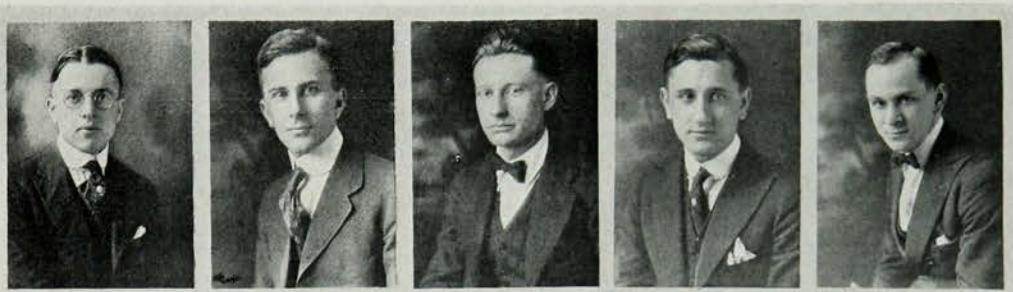

It remained for the Class of 1920 to establish the G. W. U. Students Dental Society on a real basis—one that is a model for other schools to follow. Some of the papers and demonstrations that were delivered before the Society are to be published in some of the Dental Journals—such are their worth. The President of the Society has already been nominated for his own County Dental Society, and slated to deliver a paper on the Resumé of the Work Accomplished by the G. W. U. S. D. S. for the year 1919-1920.

The class itself boasts of some very distinguished members. The ladies fair are especially qualified to be representatives of their profession (incidentally one of them is a graduate nurse). The President of the Class has an Arts Degree, and is at present working on a book pertaining to an important subject in dentistry. Another member of the Class has been carrying on extensive research work in the Bacteriological Lab, and intends to startle the dental world with some important scientific facts. A new type of removable bridge-work is being developed and perfected by the star Prosthetist, and some new ideas pertaining to Exodontia are being propounded by another member of the Class. The Infirmary this year has been said to resemble suites of offices whenever seniors were at work, and the remarkable results accomplished, and the high calibre of patients, have been the topic of conversation for many a day.

The Class of 1920 looks forward to a successful career. Thanks to the untiring efforts and able guidance of Dr. Wolfe, Professor of Operative Dentistry, who has safely piloted the class through its four-year college career; and ever mindful of the aid and advice which Dr. Morrison, Head of the Infirmary, has always shown; and thanks to Dr. Mess, the Dean, whose sacrifices and persevering efforts have done much toward placing the Dental School in its envied position among other schools; and thanks to the cooperative teaching which the other professors and instructors of the Faculty have always readily given; the Class of 1920 looks with sad heart on the eve of its departure from the school, but with glad spirits on the prospects of its going forth into the dental world as representative students of G. W. U.

"A man whom once you will meet
You'll desire again to greet."

Eminent authors have written that we mortals are victims of habit; and Lew is no exception. He acquired the habit of the Class Presidency away back in '17; and this has stuck to him ever since. Perhaps it wasn't all his fault at that—the Class knew that it had the right man for its highest honor, and kept him there. Like everyone else, Lew has his weaknesses—if a strong pipe and a good piano can be so classified. The Class has been proud of Lew's record at school, in his endeavors both in and out of the class-room, and feels sure that he will be a big success in his future work, and an everlasting credit to his Class and University.

VIRGINIA

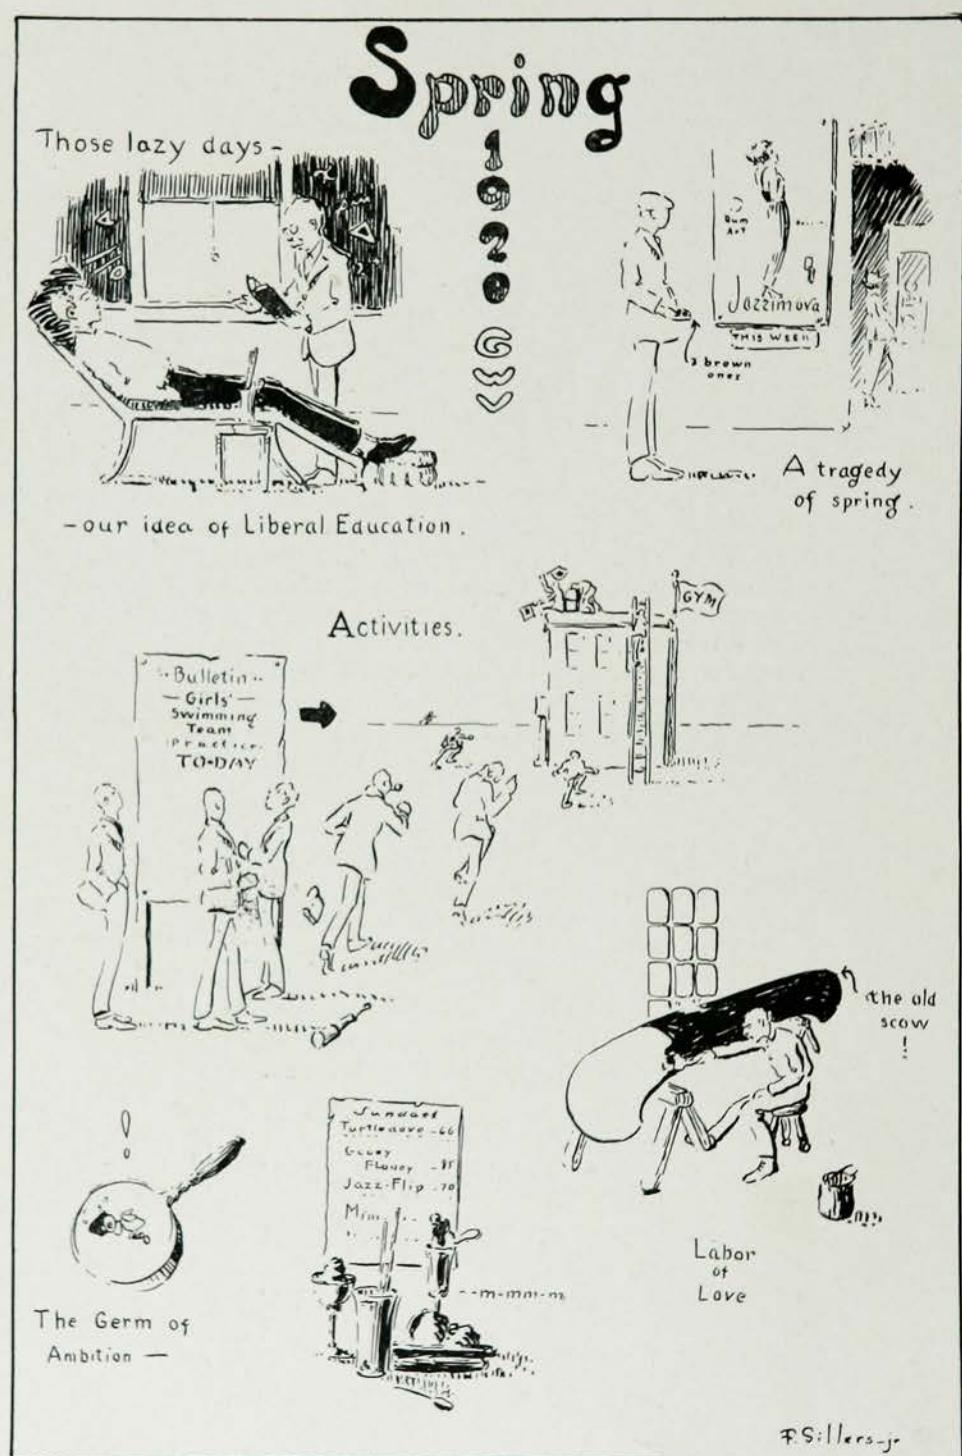

With the opening of school in the fall of 1916, there entered our ranks from Virginia a slender lad with a slender idea that he could become a slender druggist. "Bunny", as he was known among his classmates, soon fell in line and was found to be a plunger right from the start. Completing his Freshman year with success, he repeated the achievement in his next year's work. Now "Bunny" is to graduate, the highest honor that could become him. And Bunny, we one and all wish you the best of luck for a successful career.

PHARMACY NOTES

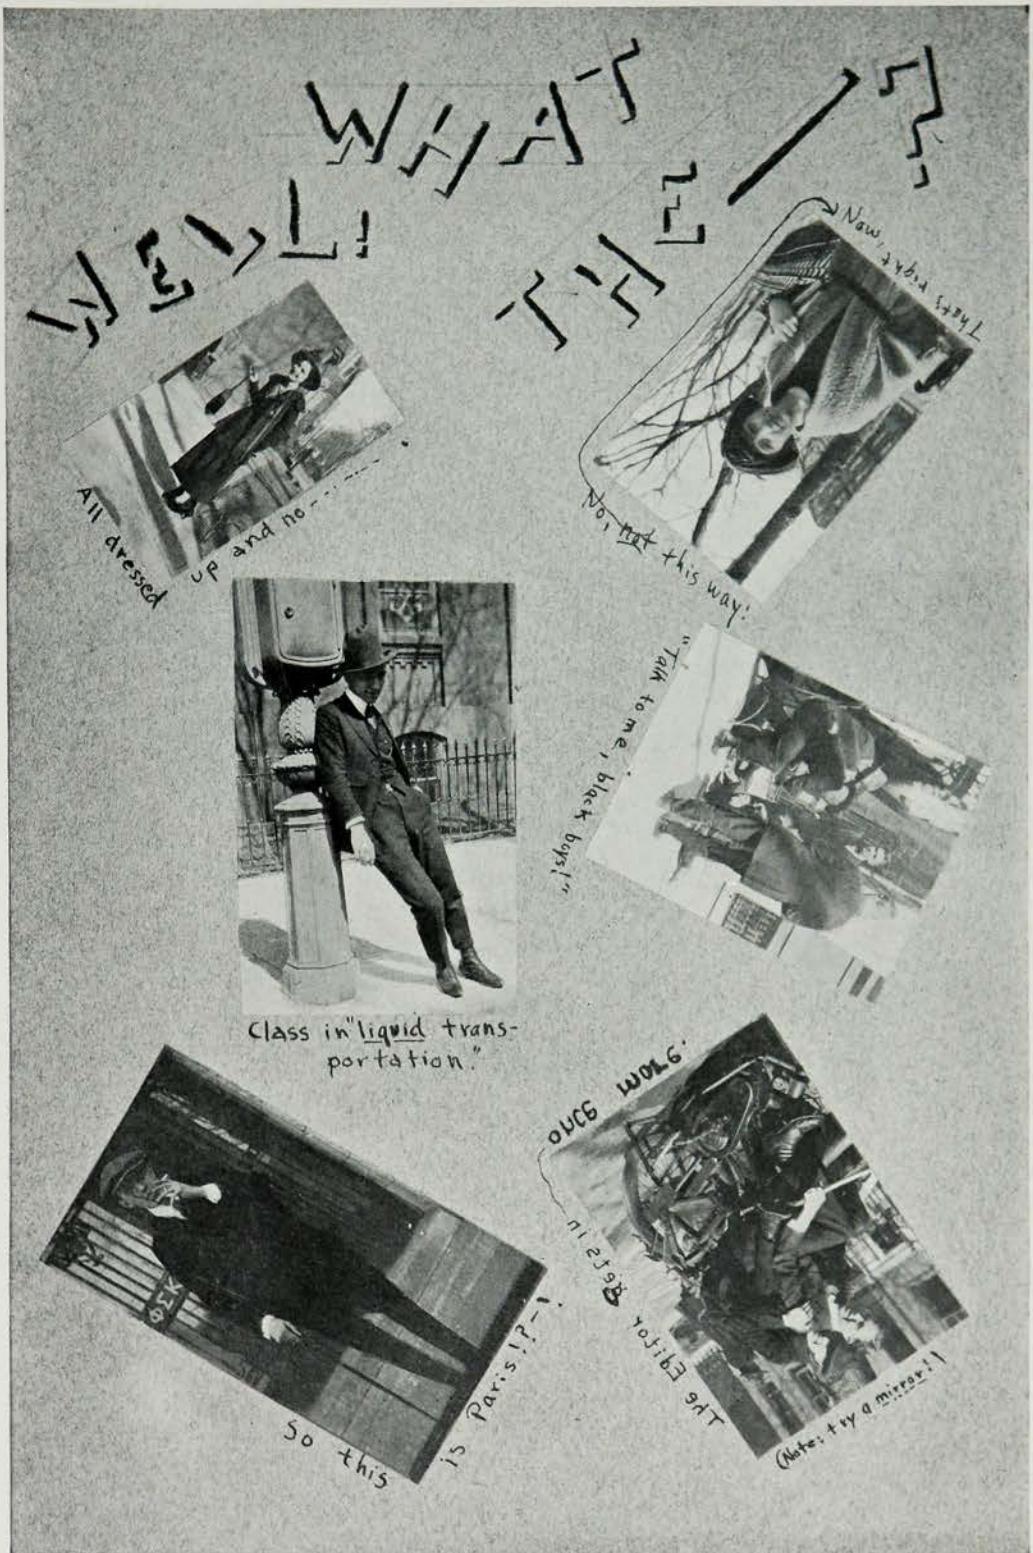

"Bunny" ends his existence in the Pharmacy Class this year and wills his uniqueness to Mr. Lynch, who is the solitary member of the Junior Class, and who graduates next year.

The College of Pharmacy is represented on the Student Council by C. Walter Parker, an honor which is placed only upon those who are best suited, and Walter will make good.

WHEN the call was made last fall for basketball material, some forty promising men, all of whom had played in years previous and including several letter men, reported at the Y. M. C. A. for practice.

Eugene Underwood, a letter man for the last three years, was elected Captain. U. Grant Keener was elected manager and Arthur Nall assistant manager. Coach Harry Almon, an All American forward and captain of the George Washington Basketball Team of 1916, then began the work of whipping into shape the real playing team which was to represent the University.

After due process of elimination, a squad of thirteen was finally picked and the real work began. On December fifteenth the schedule which Manager Keener had arranged opened with a hard fought game with Georgetown, which was lost by a score of 17 to 40. On the 20th George Washington lost another well contested game to Bucknell and on the 10th of January Catholic University was brought to earth when George Washington's team beat them by a score of 26 to 24. A victory was added on the 7th of February, which neutralized the game lost to Annapolis on the 17th of January, when George Washington won from Gallaudet by a score of 24 to 21. In this game the score was tied, 21 to 21, up to the last minute, when Gilman, by a sudden burst of speed, made a field goal, which was followed by a free throw and the game was won.

The team left a week later for a trip through Pennsylvania, where they played Penn. State, Bucknell and Lafayette. On the 23rd of February the season was closed with the game with Catholic University.

With many of the letter men back again, next year promises to be one of the most successful seasons in George Washington University's basketball history.

"Gene" has been successfully holding down the position of guard for the past three years. As Captain this season he has led the team skilfully and by hard playing has pulled the team out of the hole many a time. He hails from Chicago and the Georgetown bunch wishes that he would return. But we don't.

CHARLES M. BOTLER, Capt.-elect.

By hard and skilful playing "Charlie" has rightly won the position of Captain for the coming season. Two years ago he was on the varsity team and helped win the District Intercollegiate League championship. After a year as a Lieutenant in the Army he is back at the old guard position, better than ever. "Charlie" is planning big things for next year, so look out, C. U.!

When John first came out for the team the word spread immediately that a new guard was out who could stop a locomotive. Daily certainly lived up to his "rep", because he stopped everything that came near him and did his part in holding down the opponents' scores.

Did we get the tip off? We did! Every time. Lawrence is right there when it comes to jumping and running the floor. And he handles the ball like a duck takes to water. This is his first year at G. W. and he certainly earned his place on the varsity team.

Girls' Basketball

THE girls' basketball season opened in November. A large number of girls turned out and five teams were formed.

A certain sum was taken from the amount procured from the student activities voluntary tax, and together with a gift of $20.00 from the W. U. C. was used to engage a coach and rent a gym. Miss Blodgett has proved to be one of the best coaches George Washington University has ever had.

The one out of town game scheduled was played with Temple University of Philadelphia. The other games played have been with Ingram, Gallaudet, National Park, Friends', Eastman and War Risk teams.

The night students as well as the day have been very active in making the season a success.

Men's Tennis

THE Boys' Tennis Team had this year for the first time since before the war a worth-while schedule of matches with other schools including two out-of-town trips, one into Pennsylvania and the other into Virginia. Letters are to be awarded this year on a merit system; that is, a player must win a minimum of four points, each point representing two winning matches in doubles or one winning match in singles, in order to be eligible to receive his letter.

At the time the Cherry Tree goes to press a team, composed of Ladd, manager; Aten, Somerkamp, and Pope, has just returned from a most successful trip into Virginia, where they were victorious in every match they played and which gives the G. W. U. Tennis Team a meritorious record of six wins out of seven matches in the games so far this season.

The following men have represented G. W. in tennis matches up until this time:

ATEN, BALLINGER, LADD, MARTHINSON, POPE, SANBORN, SOMMERKAMP and UNDERWOOD.

At the time the Cherry Tree goes to press the girls are just playing off the first round of their tournament. Owing to bad weather all spring-time athletics received a late start this season, and the Girls' Tennis Team was no exception to the rule.

When the tournament is completed, Miss Earnest, the manager, has arranged some interesting matches to be played with other girls' teams throughout the city. There is no doubt that this season will be counted as one of the best in the history of girls' tennis at G. W. U.

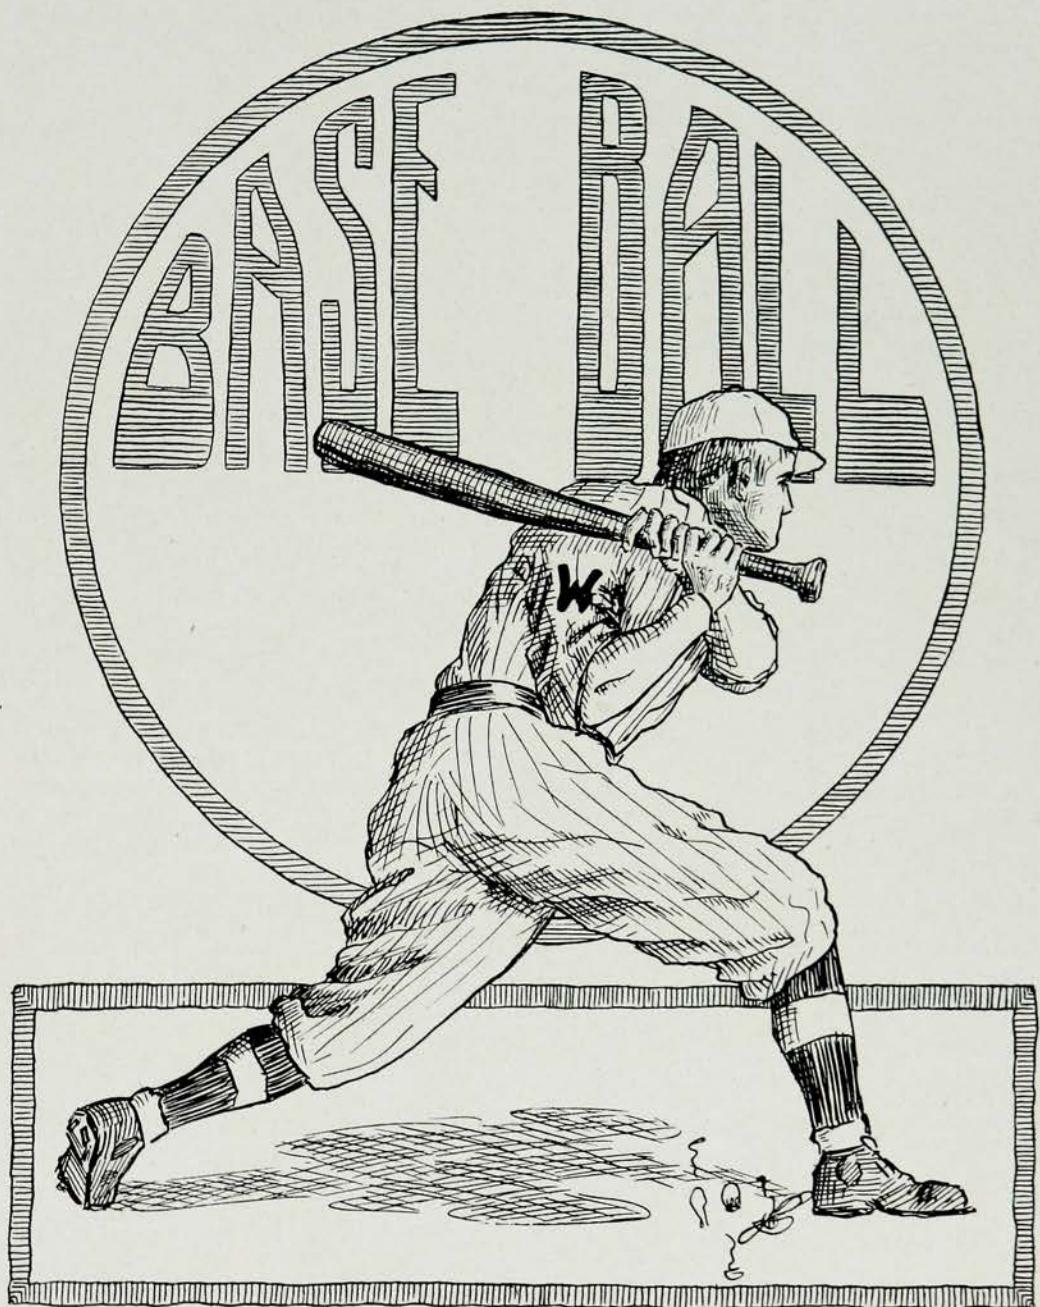

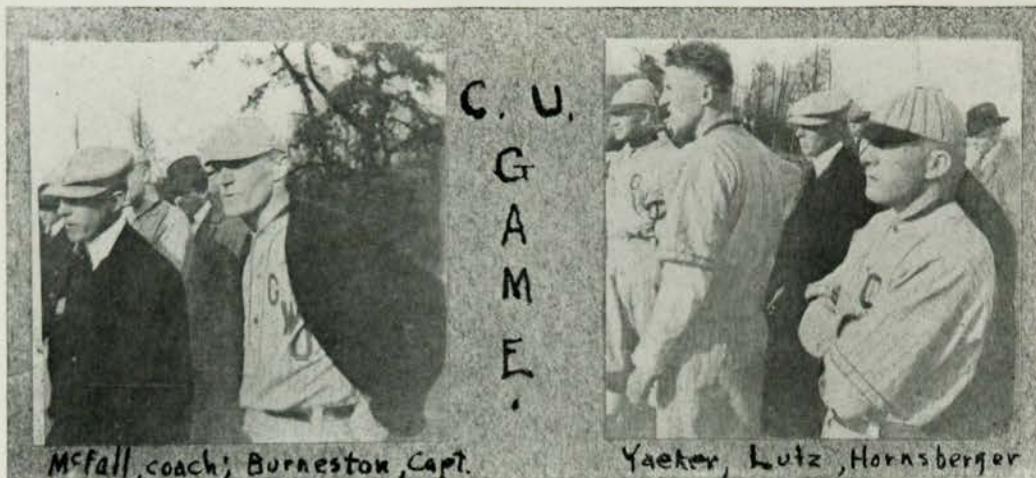

Football

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY had a football team in 1916-17, but none the next year because of the war. Dropping football was well enough under the circumstances, but as this sport is the leading one in all Colleges, it should now be reestablished here. There is a movement afoot to do this and nearly every organization and class in the entire University has adopted resolutions calling for a team next year, and has pledged itself to support a team.

The Alumni are also behind the movement and along with some members of the faculty are doing great work to help put the football idea across. With the backing football now has there is no question but that it will be revived next year.

Baseball

FTER a lapse of fifteen years, the return of baseball, the national sport, has taken place. The renewal of the sport is the result of the concentrated efforts of one man, Mr. Ed Hanson, who convinced the Faculty Committee on Student Activities that baseball at G. W. was a financial as well as a physical possibility. In brief Mr. Hanson said, "Let there be baseball", and there was baseball.

This baseball idea was not heard of until about the middle of February, which left little time to arrange a satisfactory schedule, get a coach, purchase equipment and get a team. All this however was done in short time. Prof. J. M. McFall of the Law School, a graduate of Columbia University of New York, and a former ballplayer of that school, most kindly consented to lend his assistance in rounding out a team and was duly made coach. His services have been most valuable in making the team a success. John G. Ladd was appointed as manager and Mr. Ed Hanson assistant manager. A campaign was then started to raise the necessary funds, as the money obtained from the student tax was far too little. This campaign netted about a hundred and twenty-five dollars, most of which came from the Law School.

The first call for candidates was sent forth on March 15th, and thirty-five men came out, nearly all of whom had had college experience. After the squad of fifteen had been picked, Joe Burneston was elected as Captain. Joe was the star twirler for the Engineers' team of the Inter-school League last year and is expected to be in the box when our games with Georgetown and C. U. come off. Shaffer and Adams are expected to stop the ball as fast as the visiting batters can strike at it. A success it will be, for a success it must be.

The Season

AFTER an absence of three years the Track Squad has jumped back again with both feet into the athletic world here, although badly handicapped by starting practice late.

The squad was lucky in securing for a coach Harry Knight, a crack track man himself, besides being one of the best canoeists and swimmers in the country.

The first competition was in the Johns Hopkins Meet at Baltimore, on February 28th, but was not followed with much success.

Most of our best men were held out for the Relay, held later in the evening, and consequently did not compete in the open or S. A. A. events.

In the Medley Relay Race with Delaware College, Henderson started off the 220 in fine style but finished a trifle behind his opponent. On the next heat, however, Captain Johnson caught his man and opened up a gap, and Karl Knight next increased the lead to 20 yards. Harman, anchor man for Delaware, and considered one of the three best half-milers in this country, proved our undoing, however, and nosed out Stevens at the tape in the 880, thereby ditching our one big chance to shine in the whole meet.

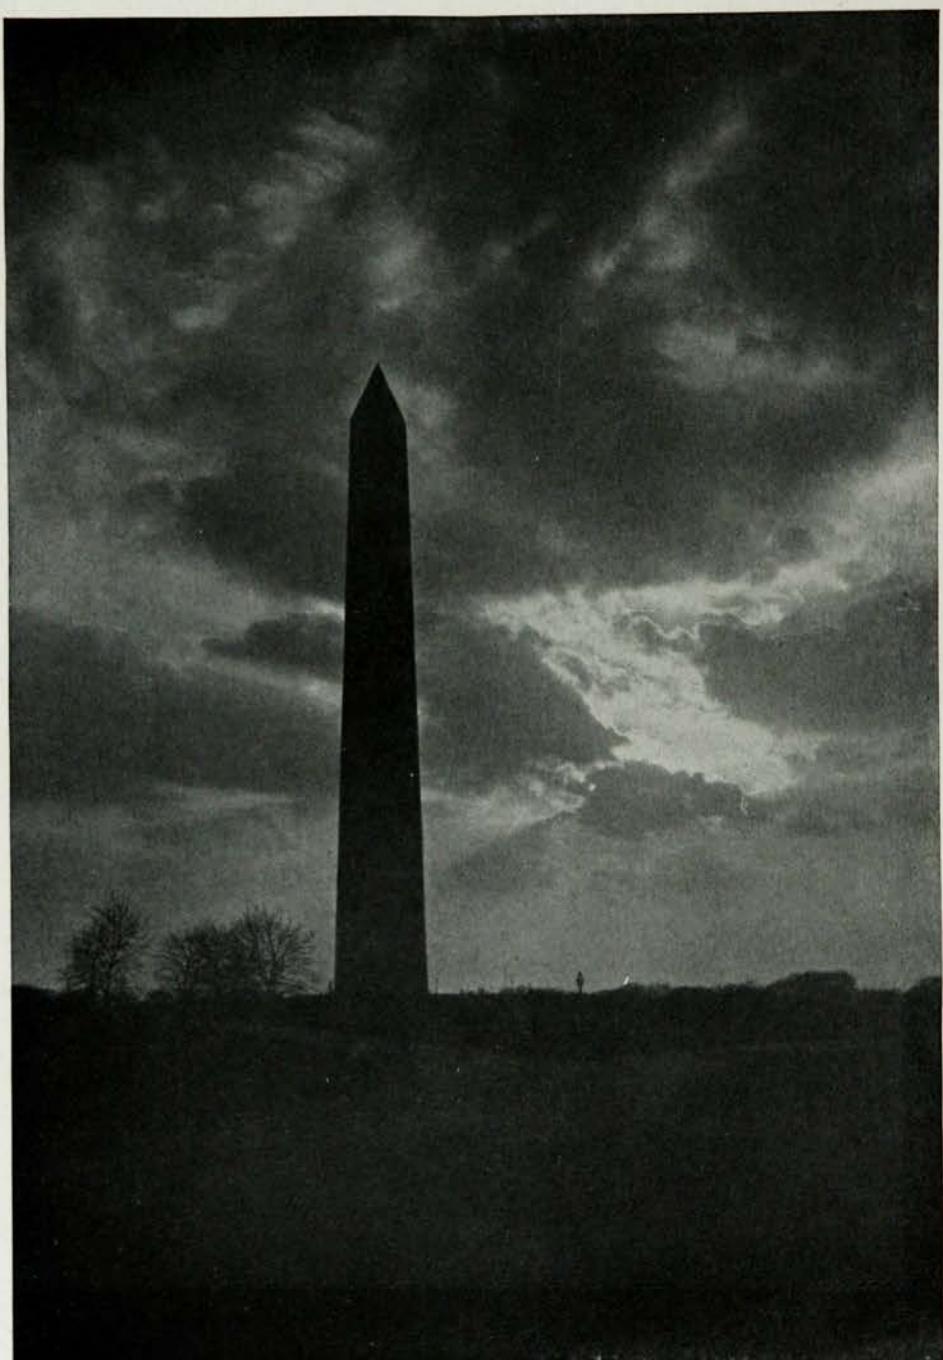

The second competition was on Saturday, March 13th (it might as well have been Friday), when the Squad traveled out to Catholic University's new gym to take part in their first indoor meet.

In this meet all of the sprinters showed up much better than at the Baltimore affair. Molly Johnson placed in the 50 yard heats, but lost in the finals. Jimmy Hume tied for fifth in the S. A. A. high jump, thereby winning half a point. Paul Lochler won third and one point in the 440 open. Then came the relay between George Washington University, Catholic University and Gallaudet, which proved the feature event of the evening.

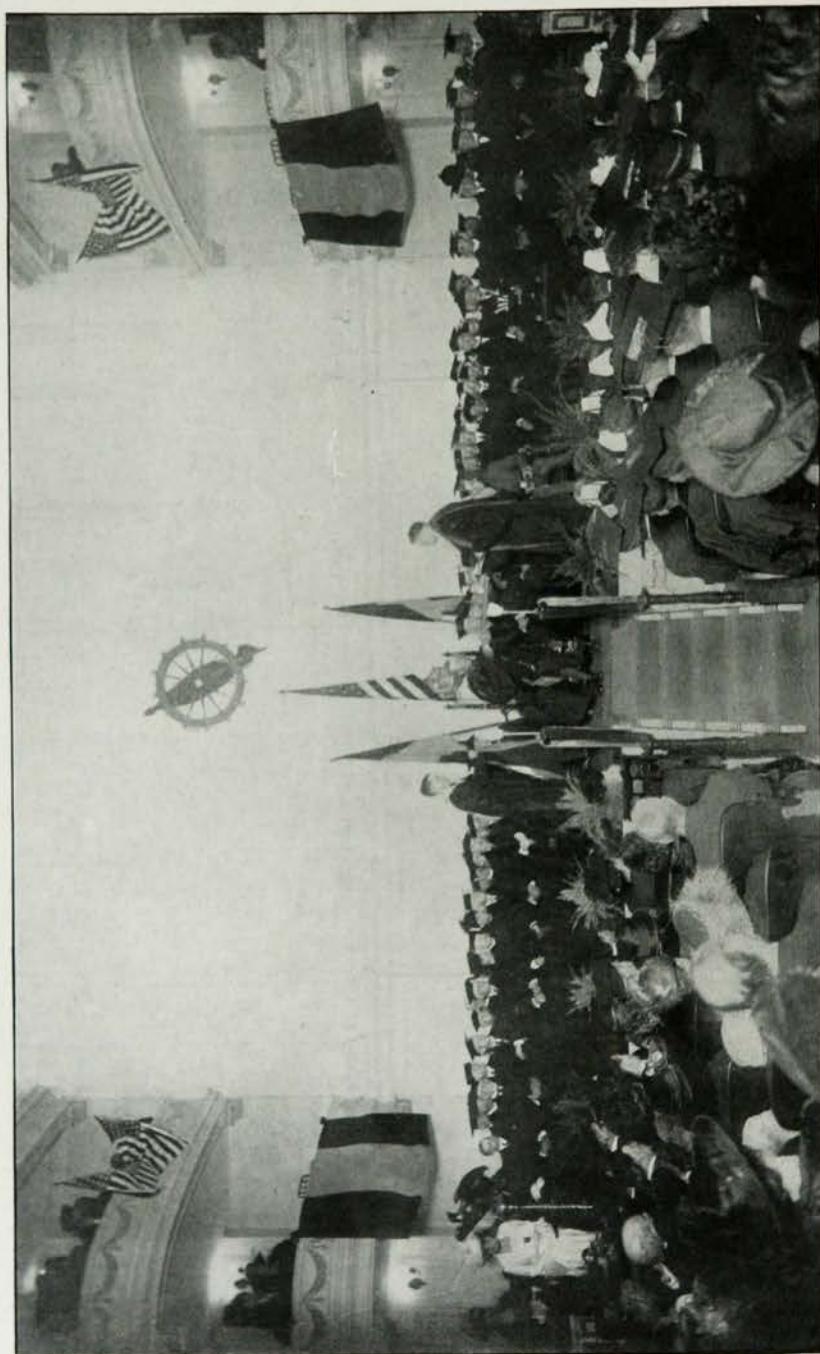

Gallaudet was out of the running from the first and it resolved itself into a duel between ourselves and Catholic University. One team would lead for a while and then the next until Karl Knight, running anchor man for us, was barely beaten out by Glasscot, Catholic University's best man. It was a tough relay to have to lose, but it proved that the track team was gradually gaining strength and that next year, with encouragement from the student body, it will come into its own in George Washington University's athletic world.

As the "Cherry Tree" goes to press the track team comes home from the University of Pennsylvania's Annual Meet with the only "win" credited to any local team winning first place in the Relay Race. Some victory!

ALBERT, KING OF THE BELGIANS, RECEIVES HONORARY DEGREE OF DOCTOR OF LAWS

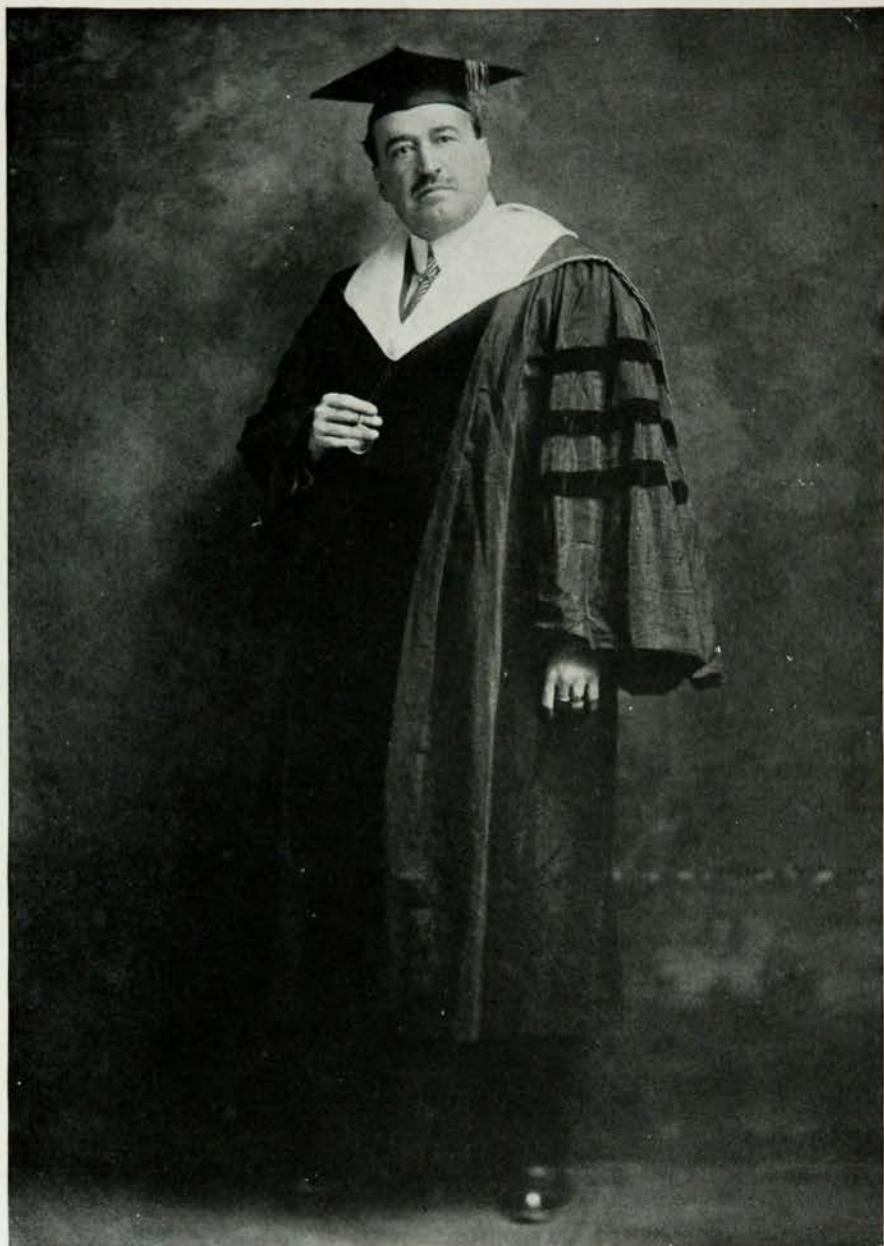

Presentation of Degree To King Albert of Belgium

T a special convocation on October 30th, 1919, George Washington University had the honor of conferring the degree of Doctor of Laws upon Albert, the King of the Belgians. The ceremony was held in the Memorial Continental Hall of the Daughters of the American Revolution. At the appointed time the Academic Procession, composed of the faculties of the different departments of the University, marched in, followed by the Student Council, which represented the Student Body. The Belgian National Anthem was played as the King and his son, the Duke of Brabant, appeared on the stage, followed by the President and the Secretary of the University. President Collier conferred the degree, and as he finished his speech he handed the King a diploma. The Secretary hung the purple hood, signifying the degree, around the neck of the King.

In a short address the King expressed his appreciation and soon thereafter the Star Spangled Banner was played and the royal party withdrew.

The Faculty Committee on Student Activities

THE Faculty Committee on Student Activities is a committee of the President's Council and was instituted in the spring of the year 1915 for the purpose of directing, controlling and accounting for all actions entered upon by individual students or groups of students whereby the name of the University or any of its departments is used or implied.

The members of the Committee are appointed by the President, who also designates who shall serve as Chairman and as Secretary. The membership consists of one faculty representative from each of the divisions of the University.

The Committee, by action of the President's Council, has "full control and responsibility for all student activities in the University". It functions chiefly through the medium of the Student Council, but offers its help and advice to any student venture. Supervision of student activity finances and determination of the eligibility of students to represent the University, are its two most important duties.

Student Council

THE Student Council is the representative-student body, and its purpose is to supervise and encourage student activities in the University. The Council is subject to the Faculty Committee on Student Activities. Membership in the Council is active and ex-officio, the active members consisting of representatives chosen from each college or department of the University for a term of one year; ex-officio membership consisting of editors and business managers of the University publications and managers of athletic teams. Ex-officio members have all powers of active members except that of voting.

The officers of the Council are President, Vice-President and Secretary-Treasurer, selected from among the active members. The three standing committees are Athletic (Hanson, chairman), Committee on Publications (Underwood, chairman), Social (Burton, chairman). These committees have charge of matters relating to the activity to which they are delegated.

The Student Council was organized in June, 1916. The past year in the history of the Council has been a gratifying one. The voluntary tax campaign which the Council conducted has been highly successful and the revenue derived therefrom has enabled the Council to maintain basketball teams for men and girls and to carry on various other student activities which are essential to the life of the University. The Council aims at all times to arouse interest in the University and unify the various departments into one body of students working for a better George Washington University.

Law School Senate

This year the Law School determined to have a student governing body of its own, to function separately from the Student Council, and so they proceeded to elect the Law School Senate, whose duty it is to look after the activities of the student body of the Law School.

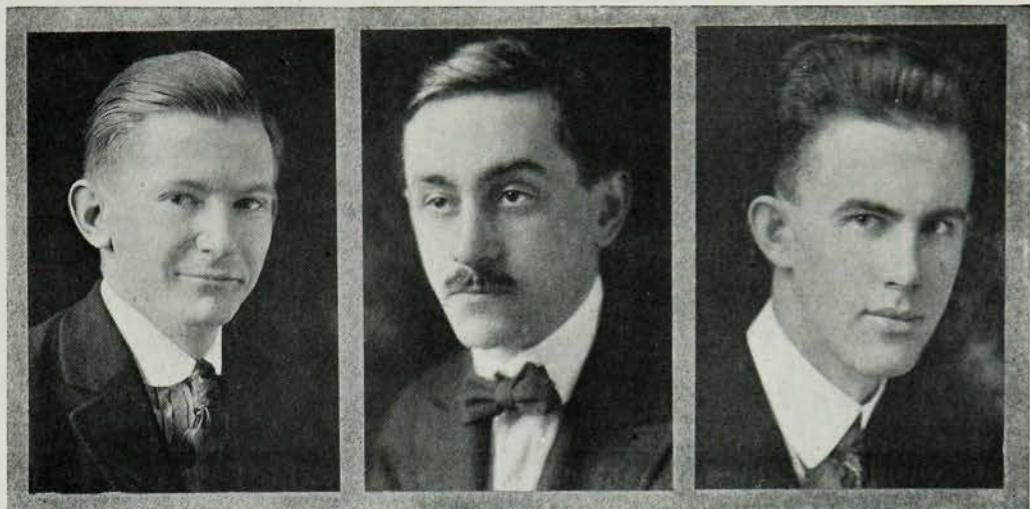

The Senate has met with universal approval and it is practically certain to be continued next year and is assured the same success that has characterized it in the school year just passed.

The Senior Marshals

THE Senior Marshals are chosen by the Senior Class in popular election on the qualifications of their extra-classroom activities. They lead the Academic Procession and act as escort to the President of the University.

The custom of electing Senior Marshals was inaugurated by Ex-President Stockton in the spring of 1913 to encourage students to take part to a larger degree in the activities of the University and competition since that time for the honor of being a Marshal has steadily grown.

The Marshals elected for this school year have shown quite above the ordinary interest in the student activities of the University. Mr. Earnest has been a Student Council member for two years; is President of the Freshman Medical class; has been an officer of the George Washington Players; has been on the staff of the Hatchet for two years, and is on the business staff of this year's Cherry Tree. Mr. Shappirio has served for two years as a member of the Student Council, officiating as President the last year, and is a member of Pyramid Honor Society. Mr. Townsend is on the staff of the Hatchet, is an active member in the legal fraternity, Phi Delta Phi, and is also a member of Pyramid Honor Society.

The George Washington Players

THE players have "come back" this year, together with other activities, despite the fact that they had to give up the idea last spring of presenting, as a senior week play, Molière's "Les Femmes Savant", due to the unusual conditions prevailing at that time.

A new organization, known as the Federation of Dramatic Clubs, was started in local sock and buskin circles in the early fall and an invitation was extended to the Players to become a member, a privilege which was readily accepted. The object of the Federation is to promote amateur and community drama and to this end money is being raised to form a nucleus for a sinking fund, which will be used in building a centrally located community theatre, a theatre, however, which will in no way compete with the large commercial enterprises.

On the night which marked the opening of the Federation's career the Players presented, under the very able direction of Mr. Louis McHenry Howe, a one act play, by S. Theyre Smith, entitled "Uncle's Will". Josephine Houston as Flossie, Cameron Burton as Charles and Schule Voelker as Mr. Barker acquitted themselves so creditably that the performance was pronounced by all to be one of the best of the evening's entertainments.

The play was so enjoyable that it was repeated as one of the numbers of the Junior Class Vaudeville Show, which, though it could not be presented during Junior Week, as originally intended, was, nevertheless, a marked success. Elizabeth Humphrey and Eleanor Earnshaw were delightful in their piano duets of popular music. Luke Fegan, whose fame is already widespread, strengthened his present reputation as the Harry Lauder of Washington, and Harry Sokolov's piano rendition of the latest jazz music would have made Irving Berlin and those lesser luminaries green with envy. Det Marthinson and Janney Nichols as English private and officer, respectively, were extremely pleasing with their Blighty wit—in fact more humorous than the Englishman himself. Tex Nall carried the audience to the languid shores of Hawaii with a Hula Hula dance that made the boys in the front row sit up and take notice. Cam Burton did a blackface song and dance which was very clever, while Janney Nichols sang songs and made merry in a way that would make Al Jolson weep.

Everything was conducted by the students, the management being: Cameron Burton, Director; Preston Haynes, Business Manager; Douglas Love, Stage Manager; Dave Parsons, Property Manager; Harry Sokolov, Musical Director.

The display of talent brought forth the comment that the Players should have no trouble in producing a musical comedy, that long dreamed-of possibility. The answer is, That's the star to which we've hitched our wagon!

Debate

THE year 1919-1920 marked the beginning of a new era in intercollegiate debating for George Washington University. The Debating Council of the University organized early in the year, composed of Prof. Charles Sager Collier, A. B., LL. B., President; Prof. Charles Edward Hill, Ph. D., faculty representative; Gilbert Lewis Hall, A. B., LL. B., Debating Coach and Delta Sigma Rho Representative, and Clarence Altha Miller, LL. B., Secretary-Treasurer and representing Columbian Debating Society.

A triangular debating league was organized, consisting of George Washington University, Swarthmore College and West Virginia University, and on March 5th, 1920, debates were held at Washington, D. C., George Washington University (affirmative) vs. Swarthmore College (negative); at Swarthmore, Pa., Swarthmore College (affirmative) vs. West Virginia University (negative), and at Morgantown, W. Va., West Virginia University (affirmative) vs. George Washington University (negative), on the question: "Resolved, That the principle of the closed shop (with open union) be established in American industries". In the home debate George Washington University, with a team composed of Arthur Van Meter, Earle W. Wallick and Brooks Hays, was defeated by Swarthmore College in a 2 to 1 decision, while at Morgantown, W. Va., the George Washington University negative team, composed of W. I. Cleveland, David Malcolm Hodge and William Walter Brahan, won a unanimous decision over West Virginia University. In this triangular league Swarthmore won both debates, George Washington University obtained an even break and West Virginia University lost both debates. This was the first time George Washington University participated in a triangular debate and the successful manner in which this one was carried out makes it certain that it will be continued next year. At the home debate held at the Y. M. C. A. Assembly Hall, "Uncle Joe" Cannon presided, while the judges were Congressmen Robert Walton Moore, of Virginia, and Richard Olney, of Massachusetts, and Robert A. Maurer, Principal of Central High School. Excellent musical entertainment was furnished by Mrs. Raymond Hardy and Mrs. Mallett Spengler, with Miss Ellen Lovell as accompanist.

The Debating Council continued this year the progressive policy formulated by it last year and the next team that debated greeted the audience with a lady member, Miss Frances E. Park, Law, '21.

The second debate of the year was held on March 19, 1920, at the Y. M. C. A., when George Washington again upheld the affirmative of the closed shop question against the University of Pittsburgh.

The George Washington University team was composed of James F. Rollins, Miss Frances E. Park and George Eugene Strong. Hon. Irvine L. Lenroot, United States Senator from Wisconsin, presided, and a board of judges composed of Congressmen Clay Stone Briggs, of Texas; Rufus Hardy, of Texas, and Robert Luce, of Massachusetts, awarded the decision to the University of Pittsburgh. Vocal music of an exceptionally high character was furnished for this occasion by Mrs. Benjamin Soule Gantz, accompanied by Miss Ellen Lovell.

The last debate of the year was held on April 2nd, 1920, when a George Washington Team, composed of Philip E. Barnard, Jean M. Boardman and Ralph S. Scott, met the Washington and Jefferson College team at the Y. M. C. A. and again debated the same question as was the subject of the other debates. George Washington University upheld the affirmative of the question.

The recognition of the rights of the women to participate in intercollegiate debating, together with the hearty support and encouragement received from the President of the University, the board of trustees and the faculties, and the capacity crowds that have attended every debate, no matter how inclement the weather, have made the year 1919-1920 the most successful year of intercollegiate debating in the history of the University, and has made up in no small measure the lack of football in adding prestige to the University.

Next year it is proposed to have a debating team composed entirely of women, which will compete with women's teams from other Universities that have progressed along this line as well as has George Washington University.

Columbian Debating Society

FOR many years past there has met within the halls of the Law School one of the oldest, if not the oldest, society of the University. From its ranks have been mustered some of the leading professional and business men of our time; and under its direction have been discussed all the complex and varied problems that have arisen since its inception. At its weekly Friday evening meetings gather many erudite students and friends from all departments of the University, as students from any department are eligible for membership, when topics are discussed with a keen and lively interest.

Its purpose, as its name suggests, is for the development of debating as a science and an art and to give the student an opportunity to acquire the ability to speak with some proficiency. It believes in debating of the higher and better sort—that debating which has truth as its goal and soul and spirit as its foundation. It believes there is nothing accomplished in argument if it does not discover some new truth, if it has not analyzed and unearthed some fact formerly obscure. This is the principle for which Columbian stands; this is why it has lived and grown in the past; this is what it hopes to build upon in the future.

THE JUNIOR PROM

Junior Week

THIS year George Washington University saw the establishment of a Junior Week by the Class of '21, with the hopes that it will become an annual event in the University. It is a week usually following the mid-year's examinations, in which every one forgets studies and celebrates. This week has gone down as tradition in many universities where proms, hops, teas and receptions predominate.

The affair was opened on Wednesday evening, February the eighteenth, by an elaborate Junior Prom at Rauschers'. All four classes and nearly every fraternity engaged boxes, which were brilliantly decorated with their colors, shields and flowers.

On Thursday evening an informal reception was given to the University at Lisner Hall, where dancing and refreshments were enjoyed until a late hour.

Friday evening the class was host at a formal reception to the President, his Council, the Trustees, Deans, and members of the faculty. A lyric orchestra played throughout the evening, while supper was served in the dining room.

Unfortunately the Junior Play and annual mixer of the Women's University Club on Saturday evening had to be postponed to the thirteenth of March, with disappointment to all, who looked upon it as one of the main features of Junior Week.

THE Women's Legal Club was organized in April, 1919, for the purpose, among other things, of providing a means for the women of the Law School to know each other. It is a democratic association, welcoming to its membership all women enrolled in the Law School of the University who register for membership. One of its popular features is the absence of dues, all expenses being met by assessment.

During the first semester of the school term 1919-1920, the Club conducted three "affairs", all of which were very successful and most enjoyable. Encouraged by its past efforts, the organization hopes to do much in the future, not only in social activities, but along other lines which have not yet been tested.

THE George Washington Literary Society was founded by Mr. Lawrence C. Woodman, instructor in English in the Department of Arts and Sciences. Its primary purpose is to aid the development of literary talent among the University students. Membership in the society is obtained only by virtue of some literary work of the individual applicant, which is favorably passed upon by the members of the society. Membership is limited to twenty in order to insure earnest cooperation and an efficient working body.

Davis Prize Speaking

HE Davis Prizes were founded in Columbian College by Hon. Isaac Davis, of Massachusetts, in 1847. The original endowment was five hundred dollars, "proceeds of which will afford three premiums, in cash or gold medals, of the value of five dollars, of ten dollars, and of fifteen dollars, annually—these premiums or prizes to be distributed annually to such members of the Senior Class as shall have made the greatest progress in elocution since their connection with the College."

These orations are first read separately by each member of the Committee of Award and are marked for quality of composition. They are afterward marked by each member of the Committee for effectiveness in delivery. Composition and delivery are given equal weight in the award. After the contest the Committee in conference determines upon the award of the prizes and this award is announced at the close of the exercises.

Engineering Society

THE membership of this society includes students registered in the College of Engineering, and anyone in the University who is interested in engineering or technical subjects.

The aims and purposes of the society are to foster the interest and general information of its members along engineering and technical lines and also to increase good fellowship among the members by various social activities.

An epitome of the society's history for the year 1919-1920 follows: Initial smoker and get-together meeting to bring before the new students what the society is and what it does; then, the regular meetings on the second Monday of each month, with prominent speakers on the subjects in which they have specialized, and also at these meetings student members are given the opportunity to bring before the society topics of special interest to them and the society, thus getting some experience at speaking in public, which is of great value to the engineer; trips to various industrial plants and technical establishments, among which were, this year, a trip to the Sparrows Point Steel Plant of a party of ninety-eight people, a trip to the Bureau of Standards, to the Main telephone exchange, etc., social affairs including an initial dance, the annual banquet and an inter-organization dance with the Chemistry Society and the Architectural Club near the end of the school year.

The present membership enrolls almost a hundred names, among which the society is honored in having for the first time in its history the names of three "co-eds" registered in the College of Engineering.

Each regular meeting is preceded by a light supper, deliciously and graciously prepared under the direction of the Sphinx Honor Society, and for which the society ever expresses its supreme gratitude and appreciation.

THE opening talk of the year was delivered by Dr. Charles E. Munroe, the Honorary President of the Society, who spoke on "The Measurement of Explosive Pressures by Means of the Electrical Effect". The address was as usual replete with interest.

One of the features of the Society's activities this year was a collaboration with the Engineering Society in a supper, followed by a joint meeting, in which one speech was delivered by a Chemist and one by an Engineer. The Chemical Society was ably represented by Dr. Custus, Ph. D., of the Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Chemistry. Dr. Custus spoke of "Actinochemistry". A precedent was set by this joint meeting which the present administration hopes will be followed in future years.

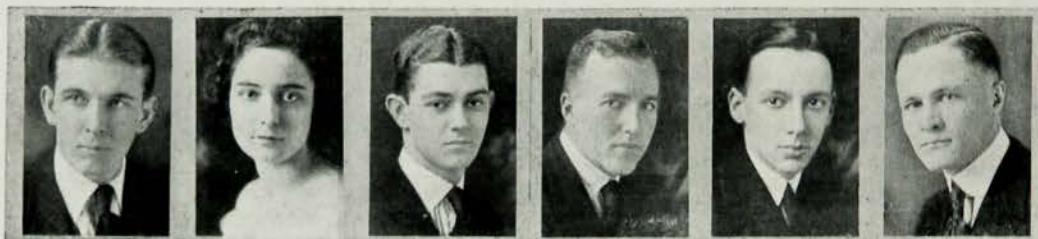

The Society held its annual banquet at the Monmouth Hotel. It was well attended and thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Among the interesting addresses delivered before the Society during the past year were: "Petroleum", by J. N. Taylor, B. S. in Chemistry and founder of the Chemical Society; "A Biography of Bunsen", by Mr. Berliner, a member of the Society; and "Narcotics", by Mr. Peter Valaer, M. S.

THE University has equipped the second floor of 2027 G Street for the use of the club, whose rooms are always open to University girls. Here they may rest or study, or use the petite kitchenette to prepare tea.

Every Wednesday, luncheon is served to day students and once a month the rooms are the scene of a merry supper party. The club also acts as hostess of a mixer for all George Washington students. And even the faculty is kind enough to patronize our lunches at least once a year. This winter Dr. Collier, Dean Henning and Dean Hodgkins were guests at a luncheon on the twenty-eighth of February. And what we consider even more complimentary was their willingness to expose their wives to our cooking.

All of this sounds as though we were only socially inclined, but one of our officers is in charge of chapel services. Chapels are held every Monday, Wednesday and Friday, at twelve-thirty. Monday they are led by various members of the student body, on Wednesday Dean Wilbur presides and Friday talks are given by faculty members. A considerable number of the students avail themselves of these opportunities to meet as a student body.

With the announcement that our membership is reaching the two hundred mark, we feel that our club is indeed representative of the women of George Washington University.

Architectural Club

THE Architectural Club is an organization composed of the Professors and the students of Architecture at George Washington University. The purpose of the Society is to give the Architectural Students an opportunity to hear talks relative to Architecture and to promote a spirit of fellowship among them.

There is at the disposal of the Architectural Students one of the finest and most valuable collections of books on Architecture in this city. The Library of the Washington Architectural Club was recently given to the school and makes a most valuable addition to the present library. With this splendid addition to the library it now has about five thousand volumes.

Through the efforts of Professor Harris the Club has been able to hear some of the finest architects in the city on subjects of special interest to its members. Mr. William Partridge, who was intimately associated with Mr. McKim, of "McKim, Mead and White", gave a delightful talk on "Reminiscences of the Life of Mr. McKim". The Standard Plumbing Fixtures Company kindly loaned us a film on the manufacture of plumbing fixtures. Mr. Horace W. Peasley, Architect with the Public Buildings and Grounds, gave a short talk on "The History of Landscape Gardening". Mr. George Oakley Totton, a prominent architect of this city and New York, gave a splendid and most interesting talk on the "Indian Ruins of Yucatan".

The close of the scholastic year finds the Architectural Club with the brightest prospects it has had for several years.

Dental Society

ON February, 1918, the Students' Dental Society was organized at George Washington University by Dr. Carl J. Mess, the Dean. Then, fundamentally, a Senior organization, its purpose was to promote and develop dental spirit among the seniors. At its monthly meetings to which, among the undergraduates, only the juniors were invited, demonstrations and papers were read and discussed on subjects having an important bearing on Dentistry.

The Senior Class of 1920, profiting by the experiences of the preceding class, and realizing the possibilities that such a society had to offer to all students, voted unanimously early in the scholastic year to make the society an undergraduate organization as well. Representative officers were elected from each class, and the object of the society was made two-fold: to develop a dental atmosphere and to advance the good and welfare of the student body of the Dental School.

The Society has had a very successful career during 1919-20 and its meetings on Saturday afternoons have been well attended, both by undergraduate members and invited guests. Interesting papers or elaborate demonstrations which involved much research work and careful preparation, were delivered by every senior member, and after the conclusion of the paper or demonstration, he would defend his thesis or clear up any doubtful points which may have entered the minds of any of the members. It may thus be seen that the training which this organization fostered in the student particularly prepared him to assume an important position later in life in his own City, County or National Dental Society.

The Students' Dental Society this year enjoyed the presence of some very distinguished guests at its meetings and listened to some timely discussions and interesting clinics, among them being Major Mitchell, of the Surgeon General's Office, Dr. Herdiska, of the United States Public Health Service, and our Honorary Chairman, Dean Mess.

It is the concensus of opinion that the Students' Dental Society has fulfilled all its aims this year and plans for next year indicate its being bigger and greater than ever before. From a student point of view its work has been well accomplished and the zest and anticipation which have marked its every meeting this year certainly point to a very instructive and successful career.

HE Intercollegiate Menorah Society is an organization for the study of Jewish culture and problems. It has chapters throughout the various universities of this country.

The George Washington University chapter was organized in the fall of 1915. The Society was very successful in its work for the first three years; but during the war, however, it suspended its activities, to resume them again this fall.

Various lecturers from New York, Baltimore, and this city, addressed the chapter this year. Aside from these lectures, groups of members meet at study circles to discuss various topics of Jewish history and philosophy.

All students are most heartily invited to attend the lectures and meetings of the society.

Alumni Endowment Fund

Resolutions adopted by the Senior Classes which inaugurated their campaign for a permanent Endowment Fund.

WHEREAS, The George Washington University has given to the Class of 1920 those benefits and privileges which make for successful men and women; and,

WHEREAS, Such benefits and privileges have been given under the most difficult conditions; and,

WHEREAS, The Class of 1920 feels that the honor and fame of George Washington University must be upheld throughout the future by her graduates:

Be it resolved,

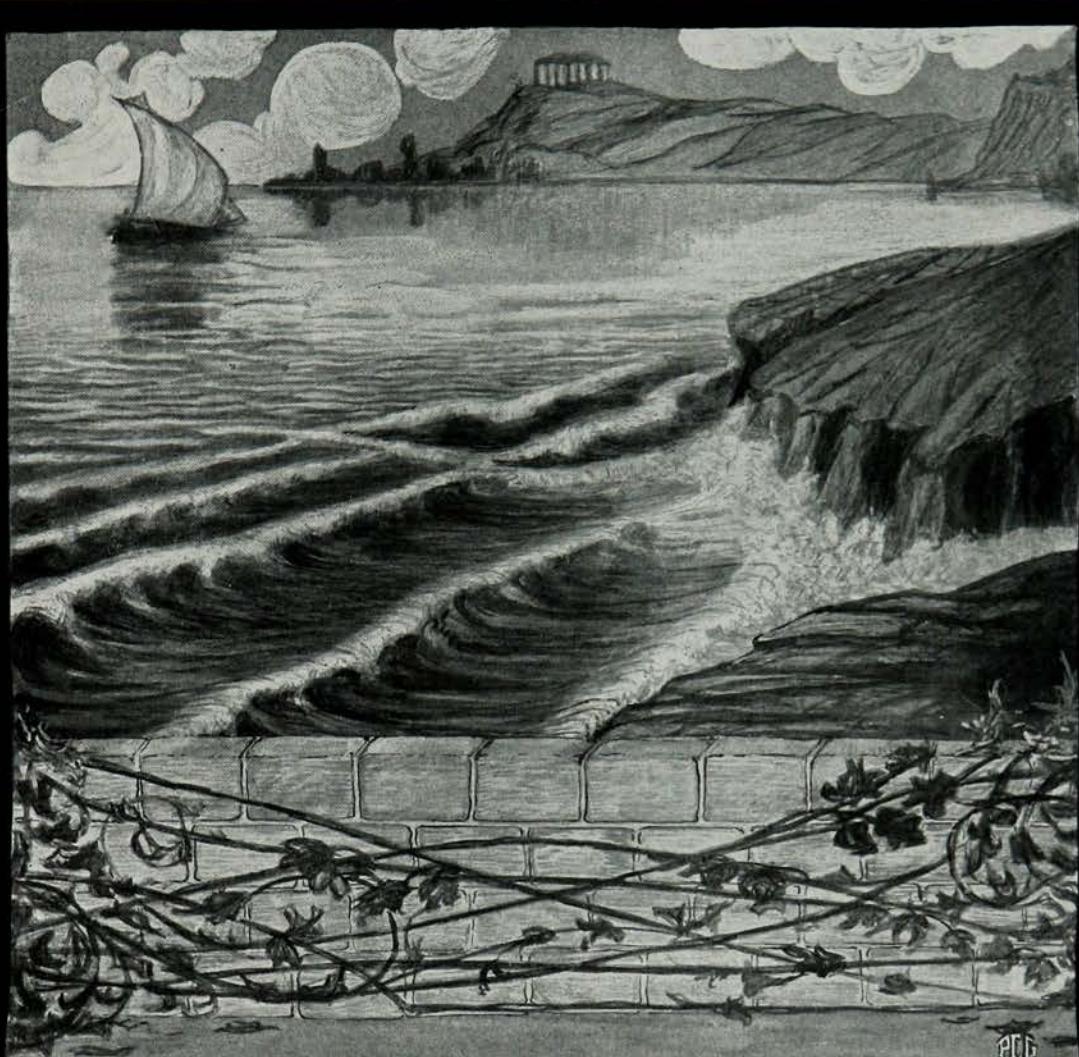

I. That the Class of 1920 does hereby establish an Alumni Endowment Fund in grateful appreciation of the high standard of scholarship and general excellence which the University has achieved.

II. That this fund be presented to the George Washington University, to be invested and held forever inviolable, the interest to be used for the general welfare of the University as directed by the Board of Trustees.

III. That the underclasses, upon becoming Seniors, are called upon to conduct a campaign among themselves similar to that of the 1920 Senior Class for the everlasting glory of their Alma Mater.

Signed by Class Presidents.

THE Pyramid is an honorary organization composed of those who have especially distinguished themselves in the advancement of student activities. The society is designed to serve as a stimulus to all branches of student endeavor, not only by furnishing a public reward and recognition of efforts in behalf of student interests, but also by throwing its concerted and organized efforts in the scale in behalf of all legitimate student enterprises. Elections are biennial, being held in the fall and the spring, and candidates are selected when at the end of their junior year, or in their senior year.

Interfraternity Association

WHEN the Interfraternity Association was founded, the primary object of the organization was to promote the interests of the University in every way possible, but especially by nurturing that somewhat delicate perennial, known as "school spirit." It was considered, then as now, that any effort that might be expended in creating a bond to tie together all, or any lesser part, of the student body would prove to be of general benefit to the school.

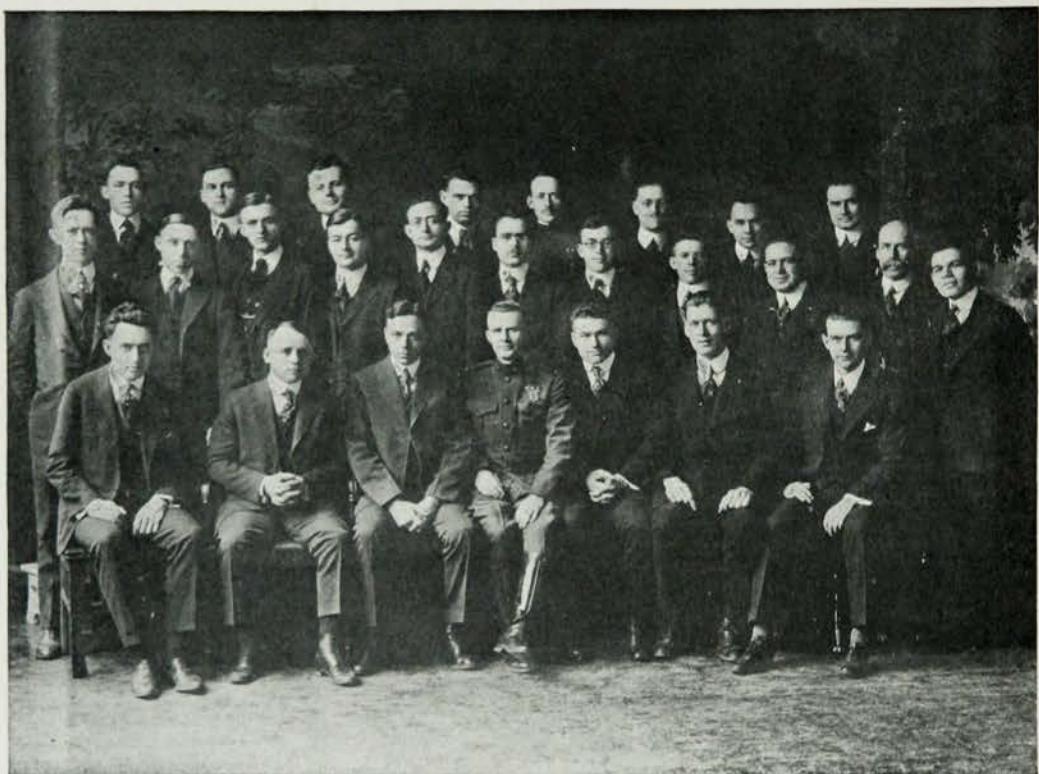

With this idea in mind, the Interfraternity Association has worked, during the past year, on what may be appropriately called "reconstruction," to engender a feeling of closer fellowship among the Greeks. Interfraternity Association Smokers have been held, a series of "open house" Sundays at the Fraternity houses has been started in the hope that it may become a permanent institution, a bowling league has been successfully conducted, and, as a fitting climax to the year's work, the Association gave the Interfraternity Prom. These activities, and many others, have all received the hearty cooperation of all the member chapters.

Looking over the year, the Association realizes that there are many ways still open, many possibilities still ahead, but, looking confidently toward the future, it is with the feeling that it has made some steps, halting though they may have been, toward its goal—a greater George Washington.

The Harlan Law Club

THE Harlan Law Club was organized at the beginning of the school year 1919-1920, for the purpose of promoting fellowship among students seriously interested in the practice of law and the discussion of legal problems. The organization was patterned after similar clubs at Harvard, Yale, University of Pennsylvania and other prominent law schools.

The club fills a gap in the education of the sincere law student. The meetings, which are held twice a month, are largely devoted to the discussion of legal questions which present themselves to the students, and for which the limited class time is inadequate for satisfactory solution. Thus the Harlan Law Club supplements the work of the Law School. Special counsel in the person of a faculty member, judge, or practicing attorney is invited, and he guides and directs the members in their study and practice of legal procedure and courtroom decorum.

Through the medium of the club its members are able to meet personally the men of affairs in the legal profession, to hear their discussions and views on the leading legal questions, and thus they profit by the experience of men who have been successful in the most noble of all professions.

The club bears the name of Justice Harlan, late of the Supreme Court Bench, whose name and memory are dear to every student of George Washington University, as peer among the judges of yesterday, a man of rugged character, of the highest legal ethics, and who handed down decisions deserving and receiving universal commendation of the bench and bar.

While membership in the Harlan Law Club is limited, and secured by invitation only, it is the aim of the club to extend membership to all who are interested in the study of the law as a profession, and whose mental and social qualifications measure up to the Harlan standard. It is the avowed purpose of the members to make the Harlan Law Club a living institution of George Washington University, and to maintain its rightful place among the Law School activities.

Panhellenic Association, the women's inter-fraternity organization, is composed of twelve members, two active and one alumna member from each group. Its purpose is to promote a keener interest in student activities and to encourage a spirit of cooperation and unity among the several fraternities in the college.

A Panhellenic Prom and a Scholarship Luncheon are two of the annual features and it is planned to award a loving cup to the fraternity attaining the highest scholarship.

Delta Sigma Rho is an honorary debating fraternity, consisting of fifty-two chapters, located at the various colleges and universities throughout the country. Its object is to promote public speaking. Eligibility to Delta Sigma Rho is attained only through participation in intercollegiate debate or oratory.

The George Washington Chapter was established on May 1, 1908. At present there are fifteen active members; and six or eight new men to be chosen from this year's intercollegiate debaters. The George Washington debating schedule this year was more extensive than it has been for some time. With Delta Sigma Rho increasing in membership and spirit, it is to be hoped and expected that the next year will be a red letter year in the debating history of George Washington.

IN MEMORIAM

To John Barleycorn, the one best known to the male students of G. W. U., and who passed away after a continued illness, after a gallant struggle for existence, in which he was nearly successful, we solemnly and sincerely dedicate this poem.

THE LURE OF THE SODA FOUNTAIN

I know that I'm only the wreck of a man.

Just a poor ice cream soda addict.

I went to the bad when only a lad,

With the first ice-cream cone that I licked.

I secretly guzzled fruit juices, and,

I looked on soft drink as a friend,

Till said the devil one day

"Why not try a sundae?"

And that was the start of the end.

A curse on the fountain that's ruined my life

With its lights and its laughter so gay,

I thought at the start that to go there was smart,

Now see what I am to-day.

My mother said "Willie, lay off the vanilly"

But I like a fool wouldn't heed, and,

I guess that I've gone too far to reform,

My God! What a life to lead.

Kind friends bade me stop ere too late,

But I'd say "I can take it or leave it alone",

And I'd add carelessly, "It can never get me",

Oh God! if I'd only known.

My mother put stuff in my coffee,

And prayed that my thirst would depart,

Not once did I dream, that that hellish ice-cream,

Would break my poor mother's heart.

A curse on the fountain that's ruined my life,

It has lowered my whole moral tone,

The lure of it's found me, and wrapped itself 'round me,

And now I can't leave it alone.

'Twill little avail to lock me in jail,

For I'd start the minute I'm freed,

And my poor nerves have taught me

That Huyler's has got me,

My God! What a life to lead.

Gee! What's the Use

A TRAGI-FARCE IN A SINGLE SPASM

Place:—George Washington University—Physics Lab.

Scene:—Yes.

Time:—Seven P. M., February 30, 1920.

Cast of Characters:

Professor E. Q. Librium, P. D. Q., B. V. D., S. O. S.

I'm A. Fibber—a student at G. W. U.

Frank N. Earnest—another student and fraternity brother of I'm A. Fibber.

At rise of curtain Professor E. Q. Librium is seen arranging the apparatus for the evening's lecture. As this is the 7 P. M. class and it is only 7.15, no students are yet to be seen. The door opens softly and I'm A. Fibber enters and approaches the Professor with nervous footsteps.

I'm A. Fibber:—"Professor, I should like to be excused from laboratory this evening."

Professor:—"What! again?"

I'm A. Fibber:—Yes sir! You see it's this way. This afternoon I received a telegram from a friend, whom I have not seen for the past five years, stating that he would arrive at the Union Station at 8:03½ P. M., by the P. L. & Q., and asked that I meet him as he is unfamiliar with the city. Now as he is a very influential man from the district represented in Congress by my father, I feel it imperative that I be forced to miss this class that I may help to assure the Old Gentleman's position as a public servant, and so I request that I be excused from lab. for this evening."

Enter:—Frank N. Earnest, who approaches the group quietly, and patiently stands at attention.

Professor E. Q. Librium:—"Well, Mr. Fibber, I believe that under such circumstances I shall feel justified in excusing you for this evening."

I'm A. Fibber:—"Thank you, sir." Turns around and starts for the door.

Frank N. Earnest:—"Professor, may I also be excused?"

Professor:—"And what is your excuse?"

Frank N. Earnest:—"I wish to go to the same smoker that I'm A. Fibber is going to."

Hurried exit of I'm A. Fibber and still more hurried exit of Professor E. Q. Librium in Fibber's direction, leaving the stage in the sole possession of Frank N. Earnest, who obligingly "passes out" enabling us to ring down the

CURTAIN

Don'ts

The following is a list of suggestions relating to dances, compiled by the Students' Council and which will be rigidly enforced during the coming year. Method of bidding party of the second part:

1. Always ask the young lady if she has an engagement for such and such an evening, for if this manner is used you will have a clear conscience if you have to ask another one. If she says, "No", tell her that she had better get one or she will be lonesome.
2. Upon finding that she has the evening open, never come directly out with the invitation. The shock might prove too great.
3. Always hand her a little preliminary "line" before bidding. This gets you both in a good humor—makes her feel good and you better for getting away with it. For best "lines" study some of the prominent members of the student body.

Taking her to the dance:

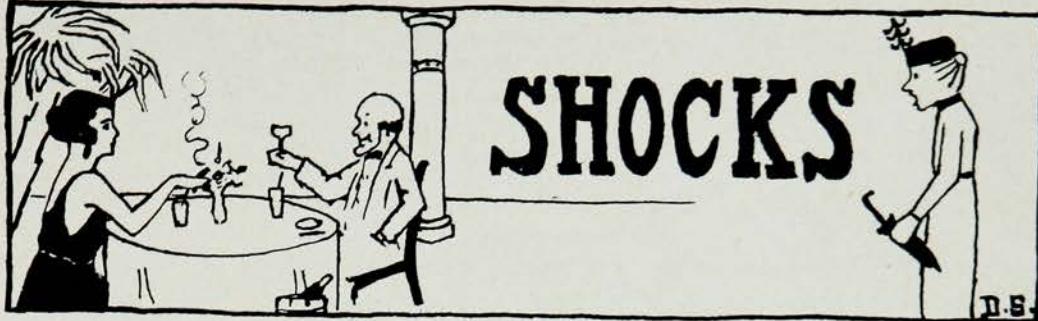

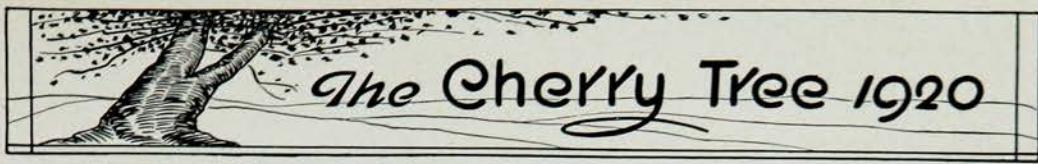

1. Always relieve her of her powder-puff, Dorine, handkerchief, key, fan, and the various other trinkets before leaving the house. In this way you will prevent her from becoming worried until you start to make out the programme.
2. Assure her Mother that you will see that she does not sit in a draft and that you will bring her home "early".
3. Don't watch the taximeter with a worried look. Assume the "I don't care for expenses" air (or heir).
4. Upon arriving at the dance present her with the powder-puff, Dorine, etc., one by one, to show her how resourceful you are and how well you would be able to look after her property. Then she will give you her cloak check in exchange.

At the dance:

1. Don't fail to get dances with all the men she likes. If necessary give up some of your own.
2. Don't keep too many dances for yourself. She may get sore.
3. Don't give away too many dances, or she will think that you don't like to dance with her.
4. If you step on her foot be very profuse in your apologies. Say some nice little thing like, "Am I light on your feet?" or "I hardly seem to touch the floor".
5. If she steps on yours ignore it if possible. If impossible state that you have just had rubber heels put on, and not being used to them they cause your feet to get hung up.
6. Be sure to go down the receiving line. They are there to shake hands with you and everyone else, so don't disappoint them.
7. During intermission offer her the largest plate of refreshments you can get. She is just as hungry as you are. Out of politeness she will refuse it and you will get it anyway.
8. Tell her that she is without exception the most wonderful girl you ever went out with. You needn't add she is the only one you ever went out with.

Bidding her farewell:

1. Don't return her programme. This will give you an excuse to call again.
2. Repeat Suggestion 8 "At the Dance".
3. Use your own judgment.
4. Don't kick over the milk bottles when trying to beat Father down the front steps. It will get you in "Dutch" with the family the next day when Mother finds that the baby's milk has been spilt.

He:—"What did your father say when you told him my love for you was like a gushing brook?"

She:—"He said, 'Damn it'".

(Yale Record)

Mrs. Cipie:—"Can you dress yourself on $50.00 a month?"

Miss Stake:—"Barely".

(Lampoon)

'22—"Was she shy when you kissed her?"

'23—"Yeh! about three teeth."

Customer (to floorwalker):—"Can I change my stockings here?"

Floorwalker:—"I should say not."

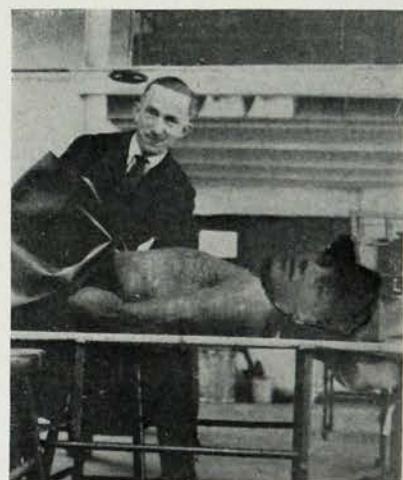

He:—"Pardon me, I want to buy some silk stockings."

Salesgirl:—"For your wife or something better."

Doctor (chatting with Aunt 'Lize after a professional call):—"Your baby there seems a little spoilt."

Aunt 'Lize:—"Oh, no sir, that's the way all little niggah babies smell".

(Widow)

"Mary had a little skirt
And it was very tight
Who gives a damn
For Mary's lamb
When Mary's calf's in sight." (Widow)

Tom:—"Come on, Dick. There's not much time. We want to get there before she takes off".

Harry:—"What is it, an airplane flight?"

Tom:—"No, a bedroom farce".

(Judge)

An advertisement in a popular spectacular play had thus to say of its attractions:

5600 people
4000 costumes

WOW—Editor (Ladies' Home Journal)

"There goes a cavalryman".

"How can you tell, he has no insignia on?"

"Didn't you notice his air of stability as he passed?"

(Widow)

Maiden wearing new tight skirt
Steps were high—eyes were bold
Me—I looked the other way
“Darling, I am growing old!”

(Record)

"And when I kissed her, I smelt tobacco on her lips".

"You object to kissing a woman who smokes?"

"No!—she doesn't smoke."

(Widow)

Old Mother Hubbard went to the cupboard
To get her poor daughter a dress
And when she got there, the cupboard was bare
And so was her daughter, I guess.

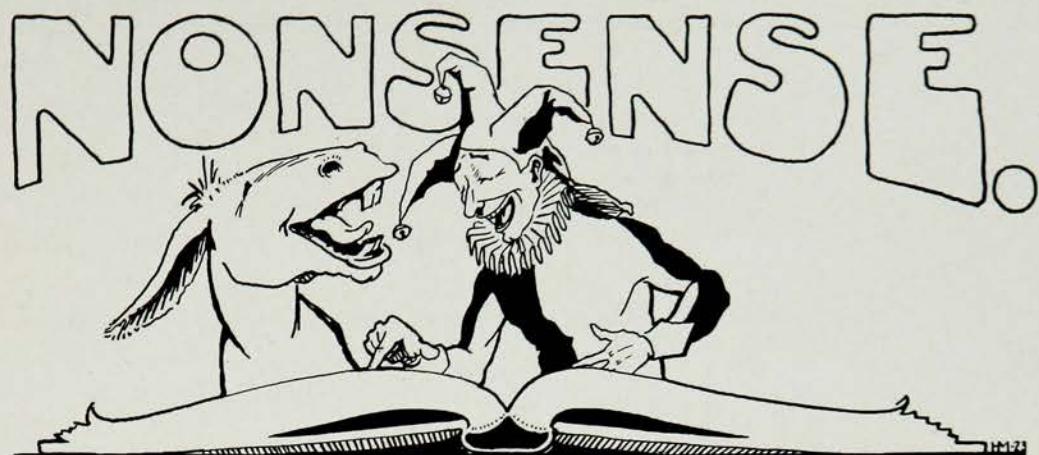

Astronomy Professor:—"I spend the greater part of my evenings gazing upon heavenly bodies."

Art Student: "So do I."

"Hell's bells", he cried as the alarm clock went off. (Purple Cow)

OU and yourself are cordially invited to attend the nine hundred and ninety-seventh moonlight picnic given in the morning upon the 33rd day of January, B. C. 1963, on the west side of the cemetery, by the Nut Club. Airships will leave the crowds at ten after the halfpast on the corner. The surest way to get the car you just missed is to take the boat, if you miss the boat, swim after the train for which only half fare will be charged. You are requested to bring a basket of water as some of your friends may be hungry. Admission free. Children under 69, half price. Orphans accompanied by their parents will be admitted free. Men without legs will run a race for a gold cup made of the finest brass, which will be handed to the winner by an armless woman. Four murders will be committed to amuse the children. A million dollars worth of fireworks will be displayed, provided that you bring the fireworks yourself. Two shots will be fired at each person with meals every two hours. One railroad station will be given away with each drink of bread. Meals will be served to all persons who bring them along. The bill o' fare will consist of very long short cake, rail fence soup and watermelon pie. Any one may eat in our lunch room, but they must go home to die. Any one found dead in the grounds will be arrested.

PROPAGANDA

Owing to the close bond of friendship existing between Paul O. Tick and the Editors of "Cherries", they have been able to obtain the following fourteen point (without reservations) platform upon which he hopes to base his election to the next Student Council.

1. Thirty minute classes.
2. No work to be prepared at home.
3. At least three University dances a week.
4. No examinations.
5. All students to be allowed 47 cuts a semester.
6. A tuition of one dollar a year. (This is done so that the students will not feel as though they are charity pupils.)
7. No breakage bills in any of the laboratories.
8. Free tickets to all theatres each week.
9. At least one English class a week at the Palace.
10. No 9.15 A. M. classes.
11. One hour intermission between each class.
12. Free tobacco.
13. Permission to convert the Library into a Monte Carlo.
14. Installation of a Peacock Alley for the co-eds.

A Dying Fisherman's Dream

(Battleships she's christened:
Teas, she knows them well,
And so we dedicate this work of art
To Miss Dorothy Mondell.)

1.

It was midnight on the ocean,
Not a street car was in sight
The sun was shining brightly and
It rained all day that night.

2.

It was a summer day in winter
The rain was snowing fast,
A barefoot boy with shoes on
Stood sitting on the grass.

3.

It was evening and the rising sun
Was setting in the west,
The little fishes in the trees
Were cuddled in their nests.

4.

The rain was pouring down
The moon was shining bright
And everything that you could see
Was hidden out of sight.

5.

While the organ peeled potatoes
Lard was rendered by the choir
While the sexton rang the dish rag
Someone set the church on fire.

6.

"Holy Smoke" the preacher shouted
In the rain he lost his hair
Now his head resembles Heaven
For there is no parting there.

We Doubt It

When he gives you the wink, and mentions a drink,
Of real stuff and tells you about it,
Do you say "not to-day" and turn him away?
May be you do—but we doubt it.

When you have a good chance to go to a dance,
A good time? There's no question about it,
Do you let the dance go—and stay home and "bone"?
May be you do—but we doubt it.

When you're taking an "exam" and you're in a jam,
The boy next to you knows all about it,
Do you look straight to the front and never peep once?
May be you do—but we doubt it.

When its spring all o'er, and your canoe's on the shore
And you just can't help thinking about it,
Do you forget the water and go to classes like you ought 'ter
May be you do—but we doubt it.

After the dance and she says let's walk home,
There's something fascinating about it,
Then do you get mad, and cry, let's get a cab,
May be you do—but we doubt it.

HOW

COME?

Come Off Your High Horse!

 Why "B"!

 A Headache?

 A Puzzle

 Oh, Girls!

With the Medics

CAN YOU IMAGINE? :

Baker begging for a Prof. so show up.
Beachley not trying to outdress Li.
Bland forgetting a word or two when reciting.
Bradley refusing blood for transfusion gratis!
Crespo being professor in English.
Dazey all "hemmed in".
Duffie refusing consideration for a class-mate.
Freeland with a perpetual grouch.
Goodman, black-haired, in a motor boat.
Griffith, backward and forgetting his importance.
Hayes without his usual song.
Hollander forgetting his "Hello, Boob!"
Hollingsworth failing to find fault with Grozin.
Howe excited and exasperated.
King never getting mad and never finding fault with proctors.
Klemme agreeing with anything or anybody.
Li appearing shabby and down-hearted.
Litvak taking time off for amusement.
Mandelos refraining from expressing his opinion on the subject.
McKenzie turning down an opportunity to examine a patient.
Munoz appearing ahead of time for classes.
Newcomer showing up (without the other two).
Phillips in a hurry.
Pitt without his "segar".
Ramsey staying awake in class.
Scala forgetting to hail a prof.
Stibbs a polished aristocrat.
Stultz driving a Ford.
Thompson boisterous and having a vaulting ambition.
Williman flirting with the nurses.
Zerbe reticent and acknowledging any mistakes.

Things You Never See

Grant Keener going to class on time.
Anyone studying after examinations are over.
A campus in front of G. W. U.
A crowd in the Treasurer's office.
Russ Whyte and Doc Nagle without each other.
The Hatchet office without a game going on.
A Junior Prom for juniors only.
A seat on any street car at 8.30 A. M.
Phoebe Gates worrying about anything.
Gus Karger with his own cigarettes.
Dean Wilbur with a brush and comb.
Anyone staggering out of Huyler's.
Harmony in the freshman law class meetings.
A full dress suit at a Student Council Dance.
LAGER BEER ON DRAUGHT—5c.
Professor Swett without a cigar.
Too many co-eds at college.
Any sense to this.
Dot Mondell by herself.
Jo Houston mad.
Dancing in the library.
A waiter in a cafeteria.

Do You Know That

If the first 16 presidents would stand side by side they would reach from Washington to Cleveland.

That if 16 co-eds stood side by side they would reach from Washington to Great Falls, Va. "A miss is as good as a mile".

That Foster Hagan is Editor of the Hatchet.

That Eleanor Toronto is not from Canada.

That if I had a yard of oil cloth for every test-tube I have broken in chemistry lab, I would have enough to make shirtwaists for 496 elephants.

That if people really skipped out of classes no professor would be able to lecture for the noise going on in the halls.

Class Room Kinks

"Getting a car to an early morning class."

Although she's only a moonshiner's daughter, I love her-still.

Mike:—"Was that a new girl you had at the dance last night?"
Ike:—"No, just the old one painted over."

Ham:—"Oh! I'm so tickled".

And:—"How come?"

Ham:—"Mother just sent me my winter woolens."

Prof. Clephane:—"Mr. Jacobsen, what is a common bar?
Jacobsen:—"Eckstyn's, sir."

Prof. Clephane:—"Mr. Motlow, what is the 'absque hoc'?"
Motlow:—"A wart on the hind leg of a horse."

It is rumored that Prof. Schnebley experiences great trouble in making the letters "A" or "B" in grading papers. We wonder if it is because he seldom has occasion to do it.

Meseke (To witness on the stand):—"What is gray matter?"

Levinson (witness):—"Gray matter is a substance found in the skull.
Some of us have more, some of us less."

Professor Peters' most popular question:—"Is that question susceptible to the answer 'Yes' or 'No'?"

Professor Kochenderfer:—"What is the law of variety?"
Pete:—"Variety is the spice of life."

We are reliably informed that 'Gene Underwood gave up onions for Lent although it was Leap-year.

"Flo was fond of Ebenezer,
Eb for short, she called her beau,
Talk of "Tides of Love", Great Cæsar!
You should see them, Eb and Flo."

Dr. Bassler:—"Mr. Spear, what kind of stones are found at the bottom of the Mississippi River?"
Al:—"Whetstones, sir".

Professor Resser:—"What is apatite?"
Weinstein:—"I have it!"

Professor:—"And in what industry is the elephant used?"
Littlehales:—"Circuses".

"Marie, what time did you get in last night?"
"At a quarter of twelve".
"But I sat up until 3 o'clock waiting for you".
"Well, isn't that a quarter of twelve?"

Heard when the Chemical Society Had its Picture Taken

Marge Prinkert:—"Professor Swett, pull your feet in out of sight."
Mr. Nagle:—"What do you want to do, Marge, flunk chemistry?"

Mahoney:—(Noticing a toy rabbit in corner of room and also noticing Professor Noyes' head.) "Professor Noyes, why don't you put that hare on your head?"

Professor Swett:—"Marowski has a clean shirt on this morning, I see he's wearing a bow tie."

Nichols (to Gordon Tibbets):—"Did you put a cuff on this morning?"
Gordon:—"Yes, one, I'm keeping the other hand in my pocket."

Heard in Chemistry

Professor:—"Mr. Nagle, what pole does hydrogen go to?"

Mr. Nagle:—"Negative."

Professor:—"Are you sure?"

Mr. Nagle:—"Positive."

Dr. McNeil:—"Mr. Ballinger, give an example of 'hard' water."

Mr. Ballinger:—"Ice".

Mr. Whyte:—"Leather is an oxide."

Professor:—"An oxide of what?"

Mr. Whyte:—"An ox'ide of beef."

Frosh:—"Can I borrow that box of atomic weights, I gotta measure something?"

Frosh:—"Please give me some copper turnings."

Lab. Assistant:—"Do you want 'em turned right or left?"

Frosh:—"Darn if I know—it didn't say."

A Typical Scene taken from Life.

(Ed.'s note:—Ye gods, discovered!)

Applied Chemistry

It is a conjugate salt. The reaction takes place more rapidly in the absence of light. It has a sweet taste and an ethereal odor. When taken in small quantities it produces a blissful sensation, but in large quantities it has a nauseous effect. It is soluble in distilled moonlight and is best precipitated in the absence of humanity. The presence of a catalytic* agent such as love, increases the speed and temperature of the reaction. The reaction is therefore exothermic in the presence of the catalytic agent.

* Anything that helps along the reaction.

Entering the World Electrical

THE graduate of today enters a world electrical.

Gathered from the distant waterfalls or generated by the steam turbine, electric power is transmitted to the busiest city or the smallest country place.

Through the co-ordination of inventive genius with engineering and manufacturing resources, the General Electric Company has fostered and developed to a high state of perfection these and numerous other applications.

And so electricity, scarcely older than the graduate of today, appears in a practical, well developed service on every hand.

Recognize its power, study its applications to your life's work, and utilize it to the utmost for the benefit of all mankind.
